

Jury Is Asked To Bring In First Degree Brown Verdict

District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter this morning asked the jury hearing the murder trial of Thomas Luther Brown, Gettysburg R. 1 Negro junkman, to bring a verdict of murder in the first degree.

He added that in his opinion "there is ample evidence to warrant the death penalty," but said that the decision of life imprisonment or death, in the event a first-degree verdict is found, is in the hands of the jury.

The district attorney and Attorney Eugene R. Hartman, court appointed attorney for Brown, gave their arguments to the jury this morning.

Accused in Fatal Shooting

Each spent 55 minutes in a review of the case covering practically all of the major testimony given in the last three days.

When the district attorney had concluded his argument at 11:30 Judge W. C. Sheely adjourned court until 1 o'clock when he began his charge. The jury was expected to begin consideration of its verdict about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Brown is accused of fatally shooting Cleveland Arnold, an itinerant worker from Florida, who was both a lodger in the Brown home for five months prior to the shooting and for a week prior to the shooting an employee of Brown.

Character Witnesses

The defense concluded its testimony with Raymond Spahr, Glenn Guise, Hubert Wise, Ernest Carter and Hansford Sneed appearing.

5 CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GO TO CAMPS

Five and possibly six crippled children from Adams County will go to summer camps operated by the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults, it was announced Wednesday afternoon at the May meeting of the board of directors of the Adams County Crippled Children's Society.

This is the largest number of campers ever sent to summer camps in any year from this county, Mrs. Franklin R. Bigham, president of the county society, said. Last year there were two campers from Adams County.

Money raised in the annual Easter Seal sale helps finance the summer camping trips through direct help given the campers and through the share of seal sale returns donated to the state society, it was pointed out.

The announcement about the plans for this year's campers was made to the board by Mrs. Joseph F. Bushey, a state nurse and member of the board of directors of the county society. Camp schedules and assignments for the county youngsters have not yet been announced.

MacDonald Company Grand Opening Friday, Saturday

When two Gettysburg College fraternity brothers, wanting to earn some extra money, started eight years ago to wash windows in their spare time they didn't realize that they were starting a partnership business which would lead to the opening this week of their new store at 22 Baltimore St.

The MacDonald Company, which holds its grand opening Friday and Saturday, is the outgrowth of the part-time activities of its owners, Magnus "Mac" Flaws Jr. and Donald H. Becker. While students they expanded their window cleaning business, diversifying, first into floor waxing and later into floor and wall tile installation.

Business continued being good and so they opened their first store on Chambersburg St. July 1, 1953. They moved from there this week into their new location where they have about three times

BOARD FAVORS INCREASES IN ASSISTANCE

More tax money for Public Assistance payments would be a good investment in the long run, Adams County Board of Assistance members feel. In discussion following their meeting in the Altland House, Abbottstown, Wednesday evening, they expressed the opinion that the standards on which present payments are based are too low.

Adequate assistance would be helpful in getting people off assistance, getting them independent they said.

Discussion of assistance policies and payments came up following a report by two board members and Mrs. Verna Myers, executive director, on a Pennsylvania Citizens Association sponsored meeting held in Gettysburg a week ago.

Oppose Proposed Law

During its meeting, the board registered its opposition to Senate Bill 364, now in the legislative mill in Harrisburg. That bill, if it becomes law, will place on the Department of Public Welfare and local assistance boards the responsibility of determining if a home is "suitable" before assistance can be paid for the benefit of children in the home.

Mrs. Myers reported that currently there are 576 assistance cases in Adams County, representing 1,315 persons. This is 27 more cases and 196 more persons than a year ago, she said.

Board Chairman Clyde L. Kennedy presided. Present were the Rev. Charles E. Held, Mrs. J. Kermit Heret, Evan Appler and Allen S. Stauffer, board members.

Question Of Residence

Other pending legislation which was discussed at the PCA sponsored meeting last week also came in for board attention. Two bills being considered in the legislature would lessen the restriction on granting of assistance to persons

Allies Propose To Make Berlin United City With Guarantees By Big Four

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers proposed to Russia today that divided Berlin be made a united city under Big Four guarantees as the first step in a sweeping package plan to unify East and West Germany and begin global disarmament.

The massive, four-phase Western program was introduced in the fourth session of the Big Four foreign ministers conference as the Western response to Russia's demand that West Berlin be made a free city. It also countered Premier Nikita Khrushchev's call for a peace settlement with divided Germany.

The proposals provides for successive disarmament measures, including initial limits of 2 1/2 million men in the armed forces of the United States and Russia, and leading eventually to limitation and possible withdrawal of all foreign troops (Soviet and Western) from Germany and neighboring areas.

Cumberland Township's supervisors today announced establishment of a planning and zoning commission designed, among other duties, to protect the approaches to the Gettysburg Battlefield.

Walter F. Cooley, secretary of the board, said the supervisors, Franz C. Martin, chairman; Raymond Redding and Earl W. Heagy, have appointed the following to the commission:

Col. Thomas H. Nixon, Gettysburg R. 3, retired Army engineer who was named to a five-year term; Charles C. Garland, Gettysburg R. 2, selected for a four-year term; John D. Teeter, Gettysburg R. 3, three years; Fred Green, Gettysburg R. 1, two years, and Paul R. Knox, Gettysburg R. 2, one year.

Plan Public Meetings

Starting next year all appointments will be for five-year terms, thus providing for the naming of a new member to the commission each year.

Colonel Nixon was designated as chairman. He, together with several other members of the commission, will meet Monday afternoon at Harrisburg with State Secretary of Commerce William R. Davlin. At that session specialists in township planning and the laws relating to the duties and responsibilities of planning commissions will instruct the Cumberland planning group on the authority they have and the possible scope of their plans.

Recommend Student For English Award

Caroline Heimerer, Gettysburg High School junior, has been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards program sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

In its second year, the awards program is being conducted throughout the nation to grant recognition to outstanding high school juniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by state committees. The winners will be announced in January, 1960, by the NCTE and the names of the awards winners will be sent to every U. S. college and university that these students be considered for scholarship assistance.

According to J. N. Hook, NCTE executive secretary, the awards program was initiated last year in response to President Eisenhower's statement that America needs its Emersons as well as its Einsteins. "There were more than 2,000 nominees for the first awards," said Hook, "and we expect about 5,000 for this second round."

"The quality of the writing submitted by last year's winners and runners-up was very high," Hook asserted. "It constitutes a positive answer to statements that American youth cannot write effectively. These students and thousands more are learning to use the language with precision and vividness."

AMBUSH CONVOY OF COAL TRUCKS

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—A barrage of shotgun and rifle fire from three hidden locations in the woods halted a convoy of coal trucks headed for TVA's Kingston steam plant Wednesday night.

Three sticks of dynamite were hurled, but did not explode. No one was injured, but Anderson County deputies said bullets struck the radiators of two of the seven or eight trucks.

The ambush was the latest of a series of violent incidents reported in east Tennessee since the United Mine Workers Union began trying to organize non-union coal operations in the area. The trucks involved in the incident all were owned by non-union operators of small strip mines.

The violence came a week after two dynamite explosions in downtown Jellico, on the Tennessee-Kentucky line, destroyed two coal tipples and damaged much of the Jellico business area.

OBSERVES 35TH ANNIVERSARY

Eli Lock, who will mark 35 years in the shoe and shoe repair business here with a sale at his York St. store this weekend, began learning his trade in his native Lithuania when he was seven years old.

Although he was born and raised on a farm, when his sister was married to a shoemaker, young Eli began learning how to make shoes. Today, with most shoes factory-made, making of shoes in his shop is comparatively rare, but he still will fashion a pair occasionally for a person needing something special.

Before he came to Gettysburg in 1924, Lock did shoe repairing in Harrisburg where two of his brothers continue in that business today. Three other brothers also live in Harrisburg.

Assisting him in his business here is his wife, called "Mrs. Eli" by many of the local residents who have come to know the couple well. She was formerly Ethel Heyman. They were married in Baltimore just 13 months after Lock opened his shop here May 14, 1924.

The Locks have two children, a daughter who is now Mrs. Bernard Schlochman, and a son, Sidney, who lives and works in Baltimore where he is completing his education by attending school part time. The Schlochmans live near Baltimore and have two children, a daughter, 9, and a son, 1.

AGREE ON BIG APPROPRIATION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees have agreed on a 150-million-dollar appropriation for the foreign aid program's development loan fund.

The fund is used for loans to friendly nations to help them develop their economies.

The money is included in an omnibus appropriation bill. Its total of $2,764,500,380—most of it for the Veterans' Administration—is 136 million less than the President requested, 107 million more than the House voted and 80 million less than the Senate originally approved.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Norris Cotton (R-NH) described the opposition to Lewis L. Strauss for secretary of commerce today as an example of a spite attack.

Cotton is a member of the Senate Commerce Committee which has had Strauss' nomination for the cabinet post under consideration since Jan. 17.

orphage including 26 from within the Mercersburg Synod boundaries, included this statement: "The board of the Hoffman Orphanage, recognizing the changing needs in ministering to children and in administering the home, has employed the services of the Child Welfare League of America to conduct a survey of facilities and the program at the home with a view of improving the services rendered."

That survey has been completed and the board is awaiting its report.

The same committee report also covered the Homewood Church Homes and revealed that 130 aging church people are being ministered to in its three units, the Pierson unit at Williamsport, R. 2, Md.; the Sadler unit at Carlisle and the McDowell unit at Hanover. Forty-six new residents were admitted in 1958, a majority of them at the McDowell unit recently opened in Hanover.

The synod acknowledged with appreciation a $30,000 gift to Homewood homes by Dr. Ira McDowell, of York, in honor of his parents.

Reports of committees presented Wednesday involved a number of overtures to be presented to the General Synod which will meet July 1-5 at Oberlin, O.

The synod passed an overture contained in the United Promotion committee report that the Apportionment and World Service goals for the denomination for 1960 and 1961 should not exceed the proposed 8.92 per cent increase.

From the committee on Higher Education, an overture was approved authorizing a campaign for $2,000,000 for capital funds to help undergird the three theological seminaries of the denomination at Lancaster, Eden in Missouri, and Mission House in Wisconsin.

The committee on the United Church Herald, official church paper of the United Church of Christ, reported an increase of 11 per cent in the Missouri Synod and reported that since 1950 the number of families getting the paper increased from 10 to 25 per cent. The report said that in 16 congregations in the synod the paper is sent to every family in the congregation.

Meet Here In Fall
Synod took notice of the honor to come to it and to the Evangelical and Reformed Church with the election in February of Attorney Horace G. Ports Sr., York, a member of Trinity First Church there, as the second lay president of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches. He is the first layman from that denomination to head the state council.

The finance committee recommended and synod adopted a total budget of $47,071.02 for 1959-60.

It was announced that the fall meeting this year will be held in Trinity Church, Gettysburg, where the Rev. Dr. H. S. Fox is pastor and the spring session next year will be at Starview United Church of Christ at Mt. Wolf R. 1.

Synod accepted the invitation of the Salem Union Church of the Dover-Salem Charge for the 1960 fall meeting while the spring meeting in 1961 will be conducted at Bethany United Church of Christ, York. The meeting in the fall of 1961 will be held at Hayshire United Church of Christ in North York.

"Loose Housing for Dairy Cattle" was the subject Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Gettysburg Young Farmers at the local high school.

Ivan Bigalow, development representative for United States Steel, gave a history of the development of the loose housing system of handling cattle over the last 15 years. Holding that the method was "not originally planned," he said success of early practitioners led to widespread adoption of the system which "when properly designed is very efficient, results in great savings of labor and lower initial investment per cow. Proper operation of a loose housing system takes a better than average dairyman and one that is sold on the system."

Roofs of the loafing barn portion of the loose housing system should be so sloped that sunlight can reach the cattle. A paved area must be provided and a well planned feeding area and a milking area. There should be a heating plant in the milking barn and a shower for washing the cattle, he said. A properly designed loose housing system of handling cattle can permit two men to handle 100 cows.

President Wilbur Waybright presided at the meeting and urged those interested in entering the state corn contest to contact Horace Waybright on the corn contest committee by May 18.

DETROIT (AP) — This is the centennial of college baseball, and Wednesday Michigan and the University of Detroit set the game back 100 years.

It was a conventional 6-3 game until the eighth inning with Detroit leading. Then Michigan erupted for 21 runs in the final two innings and won 24-10.

The zany game bore considerable resemblance to the first college game between Amherst and Williams in 1859. Amherst won 73-32.

Today's Talk

A MOTTO OF LIFE — UPI!
Keep climbing up! It is the law of Nature—even if it itself. The seed takes its sleep, but it does not lie asleep for long. It wants the gold of the sun. That seed arises from the ground—and its entire history is growth and natural beauty.

If YOU will but engrave upon the tablet of your heart this little word—up—and let it lead you, you will never know how to fail.

Everything grows up — beautiful fragrant flowers, trees, cities, babies, nations, the world! What you are in this big life is revealed in the way you interpret your up. It's so easy to fall down. Anyone can do that, over and over again. But it's how you get up that counts. It takes real courage to get up, and stay up.

Long ago, that wonderful old patriarch Edward Everett Hale said: "Look up — not down." It is the watchword of every passing night, indicative of a sun-strewn dawn, this up of yours! The vision of this onward world is—up.

No man ever fell so low but he desired to get up. It is the one great aspiration that the great God plants in our souls.

But it isn't enough to get up yourself. You must always remember that—

"He climbs highest who helps another up!"

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Progress Through Discovery"

Just Folks

TAKING THE BABY
When home from work he comes at night
And settles in his chair
To rest himself a little while
In peace and comfort there,
Quite off his wife comes in and says:
"I'm worn and weary, too,
I'd like to get a little rest.
Let baby play with you."

And then he takes her in his arms
And romps around the room
And quite forgets his weariness,
Ceases to fret and fume;
He will admit more splendid fun
Is known of somewhere—
maybe,
But, after all, he'd rather be Allowed to take the baby.

O, you who go to lodge, and you
Who take in all the shows,
Who have no little tots at home—
No Marybell or Rose—
Will never know supremest joy
Until—and soon the day be—
Your wife says: "I am weary now;
I wish you'd take the baby."

STEEL, UNION RESUME TALKS

NEW YORK (AP)—At least a temporary nonintervention policy by the government was evident today as contract negotiations in the basic steel industry resume.

Joseph F. Finnegan, National Director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said his agency has no present plans for stepping into the talks.

The government's chief labor trouble shooter said he is keeping in close touch with representatives of the steel companies and the United Steelworkers of America. He said he does not believe any useful purpose would be served by intervention at this time.

The contract talks were in recess Wednesday. A four-man team representing the 12 largest steel companies spent the time preparing a formal rejection of the union's demands for higher wages, a shorter work week and other benefits. Current wages average $3.03 an hour and the basic work week is 40 hours.

EXPRESS RUNS INTO FREIGHT DERAILMENT

By GEORGE ESPEY

FRAZER, Pa. (AP) — A freight train derailed Wednesday night and moments later a passenger train plowed into the wreckage blocking the four main line tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

None of the 41 passengers and 5 crewmen aboard the night express from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh was hospitalized, but three people reported minor injuries. All were brought back to Philadelphia early today on a relief train. The five crewmen on the freight train escaped injury.

Only the locomotive and two of the 44 freight cars stayed on the tracks. The rest ended in a tangled wreckage across the tracks or at the bottom of a 40-foot embankment.

Engine Overturns
When the passenger train locomotive plowed into this wreckage it overturned and slid down the embankment, but the engineer and firemen climbed out a window uninjured.

Nine baggage and mail cars behind the locomotive also derailed, but another baggage car, a club car and the five passenger cars at the end of the 16-car train stayed on the track.

"We were going about 65 miles an hour, within the 70 mile speed limit," said the engineer of the passenger train, F. W. Drissner, 64, of Philadelphia.

Heavy Fog
"An emergency signal flashed in my cab. I slammed on the emergency brake. I had no idea what we hit. There was a heavy fog. The next thing I knew our engine was over a gully and on its side. Myself and the fireman got out through a window."

He had just left the suburban Paoli station, about 25 miles from Philadelphia, and was on the outskirts of Frazer when his train reached the derailed Chicago to New York freight. The cause of its derailment was not known.

To Guard Siberia From Alaskan Nuclear Blasts IS AFTER MORE ROAD SAFETY

By RENIE TAYLOR
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two scientists disclosed today they are taking steps to prevent reflected shock waves from breaking windows and causing other damage in Soviet Siberia when they use big nuclear bombs to create a new harbor in Alaska.

As planned by the U.S. government, five nuclear bombs will be set off, probably in 1961, to excavate a harbor in Kotzebue Sound, on the northwestern Alaska coast.

The site is only about 200 miles from Siberia. The researchers said they had learned that under certain conditions shock waves could carom off upper air layers and return to earth more than 300 miles away with damaging effect.

Waves Leapfrog
Blast waves from the bombs ride on air-ducting layers, said J. W. Reed and H. W. Church of the Sandia Corp. They addressed the second Plowshare Symposium on Industrial and Scientific Uses of Nuclear Explosions. The symposium is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and the University of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory.

It was these air-ducting layers that caused shock waves from the Nevada atom bomb tests to leapfrog over the immediately surrounding area and come down 70 miles or more away on Las Vegas and other inhabited places with window-busting effect, Reed and Church said.

One Chance In Ten
There would be one chance in 10, they added, that it could carry enough pressure 70 miles to break most windows and some doors.

During the spring of 1961 the scientists plan to establish the air-ducting pattern around the Kotzebue area with conventional explosives. The idea will be to protect inhabited Alaska areas as well as Siberia.

WALKER CUP GOLF MATCH OPENS FRIDAY

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MURFIELD, Scotland (AP) — American Walker Cup golfers play this weekend against a man who is so devoted to the thought of beating them that he has hit 600 practice shots a day since October.

The man is Joe Carr, a 37-year-old Irishman who was born and raised on a golf course in Dublin and who has spent much of his time playing golf ever since.

Carr and Reid Jack, a 33-year-old Scottish insurance man, form the backbone of the British Walker Cup team which meets the Americans under Captain Charles Coe in scotch foursomes Friday and in singles Saturday.

British Hopes High

The matches will be over Muirfield's 6,806-yard seaside links. British hopes of winning the Walker Cup for the first time since 1938 and for only the second time in history are higher this year than ever before.

Carr struck lights across part of the little Sutton course which borders his Dublin home. All winter long, without missing a single night, he made 600 or more practice shots.

The American players are: Thomas Aaror, Gainesville, Ga.; Deane Berman, Silver Spring, Md.; Jack Nicklaus, Columbus, Ohio; Ward Wetlaufer, 23, Buffalo, N. Y.; William Hyndman, Philadelphia; Billy Joe Patton, Morgantown, N.C.; Dr. Frank Taylor, Pomona, Calif.; Coe, Oklahoma City; and Harvie Ward, San Francisco.

Diplomats Down G-burg Linksmen

Gettysburg College lost its seventh straight golf match Wednesday afternoon when it bowed to Franklin and Marshall 12-6 on the rain-swept Gettysburg Country Club course.

The Bullets, now 0-7, will wind up their season against Juniata at Huntingdon next Wednesday.

DOESN'T TRY TO HIT BATTER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Despite what opposing batters may sometimes think, Ruben Gomez wants them to know he's not trying to deck them.

"Suppose you hit a guy in the chest or something like that," the Philadelphia pitcher supposed.

"He gets on base, doesn't he?"

"Say you accidentally kill a man. Maybe he's got two or three children. How would you feel?"

Gomez, subject of much controversy about close-to-the-vest pitching in his seven years in the majors, discussed the fine art of throwing a baseball.

Gomez asserted he's deliberately thrown at only one batter, Giants pitcher Sam Jones.

"It was two, maybe three years ago when Sam was with St. Louis," Gomez recalled. "I got one inside and it just missed Sam. He said, 'I'll knock you down next time you come up, Ruben.'"

"I thought he was kidding. But he threw inside of me, just missing. So I tried to hit him on his next trip. But neither of us connected."

Dupas Fumes Over Split Decision

CHICAGO (AP)—"What do you have to do to win a fight?" fumed Ralph Dupas after losing to Charley Scott.

"I'm becoming known as the split decision kid," added the 20-year-old contender. "De Flanagan, Sugar Hart and now Scott get split decisions over me."

Dupas was a dejected figure after Scott, ranked No. 7, won a split decision in a 10-round nationally televised bout Wednesday night in Chicago Stadium.

Scott, an 8-5 ringside favorite, decked Dupas in the first round. The New Orleans welterweight was up at three and took the mandatory eight count.

Scott, a 22-year-old Philadelphia, had much more steam in his punches than the fast-fisted Dupas, who set a furious pace.

Lane Says Yanks Are Not Invincible But Inaccessible

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

An intermittent rain fell and steady sarcasm flowed at New York's Yankee Stadium Wednesday as Frank Lane and Casey Stengel tangled in the latest round of their verbal feud.

Lane, general manager of the American League leading Cleveland Indians, was miffed because the Yankees called off Wednesday's game. Stengel, manager of the sixth-place world champions, shrugged and snubbed the loquacious Lane, just as he did two months ago in spring training.

"I told everybody this spring," said Lane, "that the Yankees weren't invincible. Now they're inaccessible. You can't find them to play them!"

Stengel's Observation

"Maybe," said Stengel, when informed of Lane's remarks on the postponement, "somebody will talk too much some time."

The afternoon game, the finale of a two-game series which opened with a 7-6 Cleveland victory Tuesday night, was called before noon. Both Lane and Indian manager Joe Gordon expressed surprise that the game wasn't rescheduled for today, an open date for both the Indians and the Yankees.

The Yankees, who explained they don't reschedule games that quickly because they feel it is bad business since they can't publicize the new date properly, said they had been informed that it would rain Wednesday afternoon and today. For the record, there was no rain at game time at the stadium, but it did rain later in the afternoon.

Chisox Blank Boston

The second-place White Sox won the only game played in the American League Wednesday, closing within a game of the Indians as Bob Shaw blanked the Red Sox on five singles, 4-0 at Boston. Rain washed out the Kansas City at Baltimore and Detroit at Washington games.

In the National League, Warren Spahn gained his 250th victory and Milwaukee regained a full share of first place in a 3-2 decision at St. Louis. Pittsburgh slipped Los Angeles to second, beating the Dodgers 6-4. San Francisco defeated Philadelphia 6-0 on Sam Jones' two-hitter. And Glen Hobbie gave up three hits as the Chicago Cubs beat Cincinnati 10-0.

Shaw, 25, didn't walk a man and struck out three as the White Sox won their fifth in a row. He retired the last 12 men in order while gaining his first complete game in the majors. It was only his sixth start in a three-year career. This season after a 14 relief appearances. He has a 2-0 record.

WHACK 16 HITS TO WIN 13-6

Have you noticed that Williamsport is edging its way to the top of the Eastern League?

The Grays banged out 16 hits Wednesday night to swamp Albany 13-6 and climb to within a half-game of league-leading Allentown. They were in the second division toward the end of April.

Binghamton at Springfield, Reading at York and Lancaster at Allentown all were postponed because of rain.

Outfielder Jackie Davis led the Williamsport attack with two home runs and a single. He batted in four runs.

Another homer was hit by first baseman Nate Dickerson of the Grays. Dickerson also collected a double and a single to knock in three runs.

Right-hander Art Mahaffey went all the way for Williamsport. He was clipped for 11 hits, six of them doubles, but coasted to victory on the Grays' 11-0 lead after four innings. John Wyatt, the first of three Albany pitchers, was the loser.

Races Sunday At Williams Grove

WILLIAMS GROVE — Frankie Thompson, Shrewsbury, and Johnny Dubendorf, Lewistown, central figures of a "photo finish" on the inaugural Cumberland Valley Racing Assn.'s program on the Williams Grove Speedway, will square off again this Sunday afternoon when the modified stock cars return to the half-mile oval.

Thompson, a 25-year-old truck driver, scored by no more than six inches in nosing Dubendorf from a victory. Fans thought the Lewistown driver had it in the bag as they crossed the finish line at the end of the 25-lap feature race.

The pair will be back to do battle this week along with such other crowd-pleasers on CRVA's first venture as Dick Tobias, Lebanon; Mitch Smith, Lingstontown; Al Chamberlain, Altoona; LeRoy Felty, Jonestown; Fred Willis, Peculiar; Ken Hurley, Newville; Wilbur Reese, Epsy, and many more.

Rain Wednesday washed out the Gettysburg-Lycorning tennis match scheduled to be played here. It will not be re-scheduled. The Bullets finish their season against Elizabethtown here Saturday.

MEET CANCELLED

Heavy rains on Wednesday resulted in cancellation of the Biglerville-Chambersburg track meet scheduled to be held at Biglerville.

RIGNEY LAUDS JONES HURLING 2-HIT BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I never saw him faster," said Manager Bill Rigney, "and his curve was crackin'. Man, he really worked."

He is Sam Jones, San Francisco Giant right-hander who beat Philadelphia 6-0 on a 2-hitter yesterday. He had a no-hitter for 6½ innings.

Sam, who pitched a hitless game four years ago Tuesday when with Chicago, disagreed. "I've been faster," he said, "maybe a couple of years ago in St. Louis."

Wanted No-hitter

He declared he knew he had a no-hitter going against the Phils and went for it from the fourth inning.

Willie Jones spoiled it with an infield hit. He said he topped the ball. Pinch hitter Gene Freese added a clean single in the eighth. Jones, in winning his third game, struck out 12, a National League high for 1959. He walked five.

A Seals Stadium crowd of 5,128, smallest since the Giants came to San Francisco, saw the game.

Rigney presented a new lineup, Jackie Brandt on first replacing Orlando Cepeda and shortstop Andre Rodgers in the leadoff spot instead of Jim Davenport.

Three Outs At First

Brandt, an outfielder, had little work—only three putouts, no assists—in his initial game at first. Only six assists, three by each team, were registered, tying the National League record for fewest by both clubs. The Phils and Cubs set it May 2, 1957 when the Phils also established a single game mark. They had only one assist, the Cubs five.

The Giants gave Jones a quick lead with a five run first inning, pounding ex-teammate Ruben Gomez for five hits including a three-run homer by Mays. Gomez lost his second game. He has no victories.

First Inning Sprint

Jones credited some of his good fortune to the first inning scoring. "You can pitch better any time when you're ahead," he said. In that inning, Andre Rodgers led off with a walk, Willie Kirkland singled and Mays hit a 365-foot drive into the left field pavilion. Singles by Leo Wagner, Daryl Spencer and Jim Davenport combined with a sacrifice fly by Hobie Landrith to bring in two more.

One bright spot in the loss was the relief work by the Phils' Don Cardwell. He pitched six innings and gave up one hit—a homer by Wagner in the second. He struck out two and didn't give up a walk.

SPAHN SNARES 250TH GAME IN BEATING CARDS

By JIM VALKENBURG

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Milwaukee's great Warren Spahn doesn't rate his 250th victory as his biggest thrill because "it's just a stepping stone to the one I really want—No. 300."

The Braves' left-hander posted No. 250 Wednesday night with a seven-hit, 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

It had taken the durable 38-year-old Oklahoman two years and one month to go from No. 200 to No. 250—a goal many believed he might not reach. How about 300?

"I was beginning to think I'd never win this one," Warren said, shaking his head. "You're talking about a mighty steep goal."

"One thing is certain—I'll have to remain a starting pitcher for at least two or three more years," he said. "You can't win that many in relief."

"Sure, I feel fine now, but at my age you can't be that certain about the future."

Spahn's 250th victory is amazing when you consider he didn't win his first major league game until he was 25.

"I won't settle for anything less than 20 victories this season," declared the Braves' elder statesman, whose current won-lost record is 4-4.

He failed twice in quest of No. 250 and remarked "these milestones are always tough."

The victory marked Spahn as only the third left-hander in National League history to reach 250. Eppa Rixey won 266 and Carl Hubbell 253.

The only active major leaguer in the 250 class is Chicago White Sox right-hander Early Wynn, with 253.

L-town Revamps Baseball Card

After being rained out of their game at New Oxford Wednesday afternoon, Littlestown High School officials announced a revamping of their schedule for the remainder of the season because of postponements.

Monday afternoon Biglerville will play at Littlestown. On Tuesday Littlestown will play at Fairfield, and Wednesday, at New Oxford.

Eye Youngsters In Snead Festival

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — The "youngsters" in golf will try to break through the "old guard" again in the Sam Snead Festival beginning today.

Only twice in the 12 years of the tournament staged on Snead's home grounds have so-called newcomers been able to outscore the veterans.

That was in 1949 when Cary Middlecoff took it at the age of 23 and Herman Scharlau in 1954 at the age of 33, but making his first professional tour.

Gary Player, not yet 23, made the latest challenge last year when he tied Snead at 264 strokes for the 72 holes. The youngster from South Africa bowed to Snead, however, on the fifth extra hole.

Player is among the 56 pros aiming at Snead for the tournament running through Sunday.

Snead will be the one to beat although he will be 47 later this month.

Storm Stops MD Golf Tournament

When a thunderstorm interrupted the second round of play in the annual Mason-Dixon Conference golf tournament at Baltimore Tuesday, Marshall Turner, golf chairman, tossed out all of the second round scores and declared the first round leader, Hampden-Sydney, as the team champion.

Although there were protests on the decision, Turner said further rulings would have to be made by A. Paul Menton, conference commissioner.

Bill Klages, Baltimore University, was the leading individual scorer with a 72. Mike Walsh, Mt. St. Mary's, turned in an 80.

Team scores for the first round were: Hampden-Sydney, 329; Baltimore, 331; Western Maryland and Johns Hopkins, 336; Mt. St. Mary's, 356, and Loyola, 358.

Republicans Reduce Claim On Size Of Slash In State Aid To Schools; Figures Vary

By LEONARD A. UNGER
HARRISBURG (AP)—House Republicans today cut in half a previous claim that the proposed 705-million-dollar budget for state aid to schools can be chopped by as much as 40 million dollars.

Rep. Stanley G. Stroup (R-Bedford) conceded the top figure on a budget reduction in this field would be about 20 million dollars. But Chairman J. Dean Polen (D-Washington) of the House Appropriations Committee insisted that any slashes won't exceed 10 million dollars.

Overestimated Needs
Stroup said the Public Instruction Department has over-estimated the needs for state aid for school construction. He pointed out that 18 millions of a 47-million-dollar appropriation for the two years ending May 31 remains unspent. The department is asking for nearly 54½ millions in the next two years.

"They (the department) aren't sure of their figures right now but I feel they are 20 millions too high," he told the Associated Press.

Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Republican floor leader, told the House earlier in the week that the department budget can be reduced by as much as 40 million dollars.

Calls Hearing
Polen called a public hearing by his committee Wednesday night to look into Johnson's claim. Johnson didn't show up but Stroup represented him.

"His (Johnson's) figure was way off," Polen said. "I can't possibly see anything like that."

The public hearing developed testimony that the committee may knock out a $700,000 program for the improvement of library services, reduce from a million dollars to $300,000 a plan to set up junior colleges and curtail by 2½ million dollars a 3½-million-dollar allocation to enable the state to qualify for federal matching funds for strengthening curricula and improving statistical services.

Boehm Joins Critics
The four-hour session also saw Dr. Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of public instruction, join with House Speaker H. G. Andrews (D-Cambria) in criticizing the work of most county school superintendents.

Boehm said the method electing these officials "does not attract the quality of leadership" that is needed. They are elected by school board members from fourth class school districts.

Andrews described county superintendents as a group that is "convinced to continue unsound education." He said, in effect, their principal objective is to produce conditions leading to salary increases for them.

Better Service

"What we have done here," Flaws said, "is to increase our facilities and inventory and to improve our displays to better serve customers." For the grand opening, the store will be open Friday and Saturday from 9 to 9. One hundred free door prizes are being offered as well as gifts to all visitors, including comic books for youngsters who are accompanied by their parents.

From its modest beginnings—"We each had $10 when we started," Becker said—the MacDonald Company has grown to an operation in which nine persons are employed doing tile and other installation work and window and office cleaning. The cleaning business is an important part of the operation, the partners say.

Although they do their business chiefly in Adams County and nearby Maryland, they have a number of customers as far as York and Chambersburg.

Even though it had become obvious that the business was becoming an important enterprise, the partners continued their college education and both went on to take post-graduate work.

Becker, who was graduated at Gettysburg College in 1949 with his A.B. degree in History, was working toward his Masters in Sociology at the University of Maryland when he and Flaws started their window cleaning business.

Flaws was graduated here in 1951, shortly after the business was started. His A.B. degree is in economics. His post-graduate studies were in accounting and he is, as a consequence, the firm's bookkeeper. While both were students, they took turns managing the business.

Active In Community

Both are active in community affairs. Only Flaws is married, to a girl from his home town, Fairlawn, N. J. She was formerly Virginia Gobel. They live in Biglerville where Flaws has been active in Boy Scouting. They have two children, David, 9, and Larry, 6.

Becker is from York where he was graduated from William Penn High School. He finds his free time well taken up by his duties as vice president of the Pennsylvania Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is also chairman of the property committee of the Adams County Free Library.

The partners are members of the local Jaycees and Flaws is a member of the board of directors. He is also Pennsylvania province supervisor for his fraternity, Tau Kappa Epsilon. Becker is national scholarship officer for the same fraternity.

Call Four STC Prexies To Testify

HARRISBURG (AP)—Presidents of four Pennsylvania state teachers colleges were called today to testify before a Senate committee investigating Public Instruction Department operations.

The four are spokesmen for the 14 state teachers colleges.

Chairman George N. Wade (R-Cumberland) said one of the items up for consideration is the charge that the teachers colleges have been neglected.

House Approves Stop-gap Funds

HARRISBURG (AP)—A 122½-million-dollar stop-gap appropriation to run the state in the new biennium beginning June 1 has been approved by the House.

The vote on the appropriation Wednesday was 171-0. The Senate still has to act on it.

The Senate will have only one more week to do so before the 1959-61 biennium starts since the Legislature will not be in session next week due to the primary election.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two bills signed into law by Gov. Lawrence would boost the Commonwealth's vocational rehabilitation program and secure federal funds.

The governor signed both measures Wednesday. One would expand the state vocational rehabilitation act to coincide with similar proposals now before Congress. The other would establish a fund for the state's rehabilitation center at Johnstown.

SAFE DRIVING TIP

Following a car ahead too closely can lead to serious trouble.

For every 10 miles per hour on your speedometer you should be one car length behind the vehicle ahead of you, warns the Chicago Motor Club. Don't swing to the right around left-turning vehicles if you can't see what's ahead.

Be sure before you change traffic lanes that the road ahead is clear. On the open road never pass on the right side.

He Having Busy Day In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower comes to town today to launch some cultural progress, see the world's wares and receive gifts ranging from Swiss handkerchiefs to a Czech chandelier.

Then he makes a speech. The President's busy, one-day visit starts with groundbreaking ceremonies for a new 58-million-dollar performing arts center, shifts to a world trade fair and winds up at a science dinner.

At the fair, exhibiting nations will present him with a truckload of exotic products.

Taneytown Fire Co. To Be In 9 Parades

The Taneytown Volunteer Fire Co. will attend nine parades this summer to which it has been invited, it was reported at the company meeting in the fire house this week. Gene Lowman and Richard Smith were voted into the membership.

Nine ambulance calls and four fire calls were reported in the preceding month.

Because the firemen's carnival will be held in Taneytown June 8-13, it was decided that the company's June meeting will be held June 1, a week earlier than the regular date.

This 'Corpse' Takes All Curtain Calls

NEW YORK (AP)—A corpse is taking a nightly curtain call on Broadway.

The lively cadaver provides a pivotal moment in the suspense-comedy, "The Gazebo" starring Walter Slezak and Jayne Meadows. Having the actor who plays the part — while completed covered by a shower-curtain — take a bow at the finale developed one evening after a bit of mischief by Miss Meadows.

She had comedian Henry Morgan make a guest appearance as the body, and he came onstage with the cast at the finale. The audience response made the management decided to keep the bit in the show.

Play Marathon Will Run For Ten Hours

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A theatrical marathon is the latest achievement of the Yale University School of Drama.

The opening plays of two famous trilogies written 2,500 years apart were staged in January for five performances — the "Agamemnon" of Aeschylus and "The Homecoming" from "Mourning Becomes Electra" by Eugene O'Neill.

Purpose of the twin bill, to underline similarities between the dramas, was enhanced by having the same undergraduates perform respective roles in each. The total running time for each performance? Five hours.

NEW YORK (AP)—The high cost of Broadway show business is demonstrated by the price tags on John Gielgud's traveling one-man show "Shakespeare's Ages of Man."

RADAR NOT IN PROPOSAL FOR CODE CHANGES

HARRISBURG (AP)—Which way to highway safety? You can't tell by reading the legislative "roadsigns."

Another confusing element was introduced to the scene Wednesday. A Joint State Government Commission task force made no recommendation on legalizing radar in a series of bills introduced in the House to revise the code.

In effect, the commission action was negative, since the use of radar to prosecute speeders was one of the proposed changes it had considered.

Although the task force technically did not consider highway safety programs, the radar proposal is one of the key items in Gov. Lawrence's highway safety program. He also has advocated mandatory suspension of driver's licenses for speeding offenses.

In addition, the legislative committee appointed by the governor to develop a highway safety program submitted a series of different recommendations featuring a point system of charging violations.

The Joint State Government Commission is the Legislature's research arm.

Mother, Three Daughters Burn

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—A mother and her three young daughters, trapped in an upstairs bedroom, died as fire destroyed their frame home Wednesday night.

James Hallmark, husband and father, leaped from a second-story window and battered down a rear door in an effort to re-enter the house but was driven back by the flames. He was hospitalized with burns and shock.

The victims were Annie Jo Hallmark, in her 20s; Janie, 7; Mary Ann, 4; and Patty, 2.

Policemen Zane Dunbar and Kenny Kilburn were forced back by intense heat when they tried to enter the house.

Fire Chief Allan D. Pettingill said the fire apparently started downstairs.

The issue of radar divided the groups, it was learned, with four groups opposed and seven or eight in favor. The identity of the opponents was not disclosed.

CIRCUIT RIDER HAS STATION WAGON HOME

By DOROTHY SKOOG
Of the Battle Creek, Mich., Enquirer and News

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—When Leila Anderson, modern-day circuit rider for the educational division of the Congregational Churches, pulls into a town, she's sure to attract some attention and before long a crowd.

It just can't be helped.

The sign on the door of her sleek station wagon identifies her as a Pilgrim Circuit Rider, Board of Home Missions, Congregational Christian Church. She is America's only woman circuit rider.

Third Trip Across U. S. Word soon gets around that the "gray-haired lady with the big smile" is back again in her station wagon home. Miss Anderson is on her third trip around the United States.

Housewives, whose kitchens are crammed with push-button equipment, stare in wonder at the electric bean pot she plugs into a dashboard converter to cook her meals enroute.

Mouths fairly hang open when the floor board behind the driver's seat is pulled up to disclose a miniature kitchen complete with gasoline stove, pots and pans.

Has Planter Boxes Miss Anderson's rolling home has even more surprises. Long metal planter boxes against the windows make her the country's most mobile gardener. She raises both flowers and vegetables. A parakeet keeps her company in a cage beneath the dashboard.

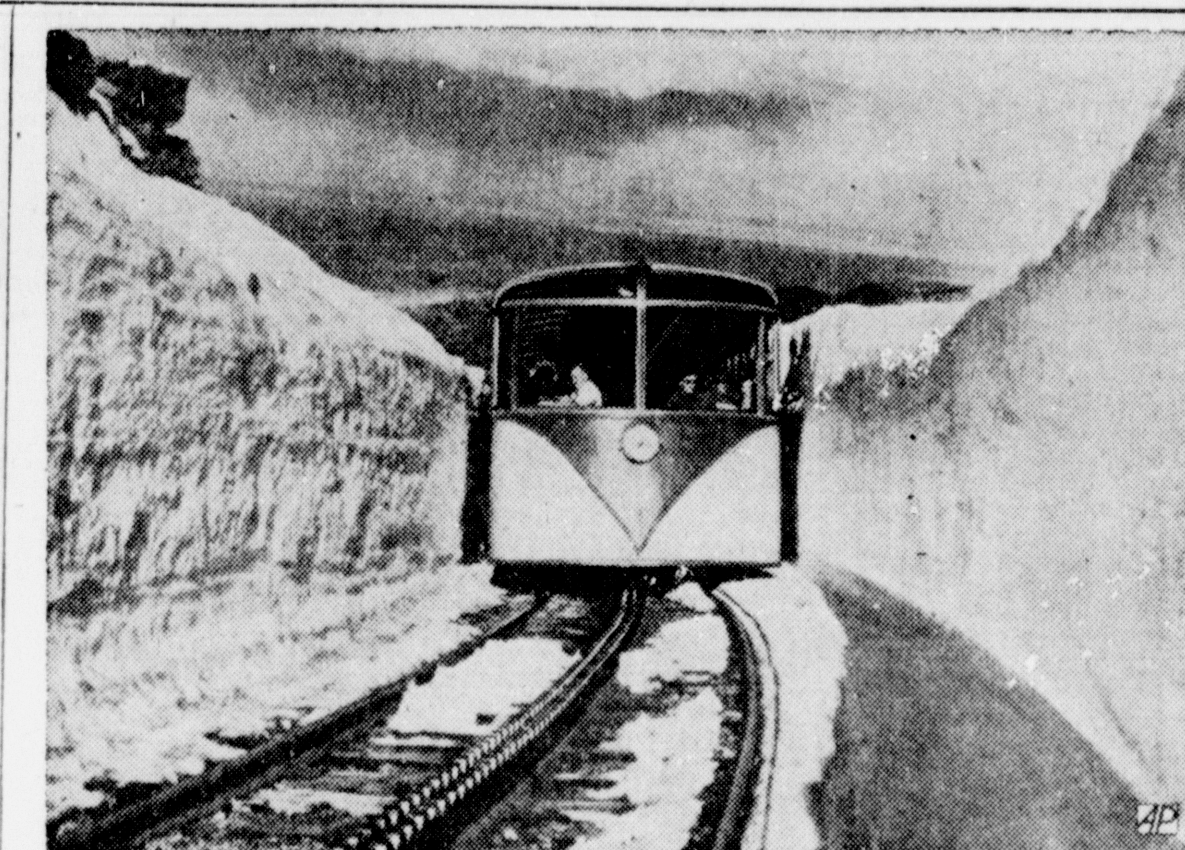

In other nooks and crannies she carries a tiny sewing machine, a refrigerator, folding ironing board and other homemaking items.

"It's strange," the 60-year-old woman told a reporter, "that people are always more interested in my living equipment than my working equipment. They don't seem to realize that all these things are but supplementary to my purpose for traveling."

Carries Instructional Materials That purpose is contained in the stacks of wooden file boxes exposed when the tailgate is opened. They are filled with pamphlets, typed sheets, booklets and notes. Above the files are stowed a movie screen, maps, blackboard and phonograph records. Alongside are a film projector and slides and a large supply of books and other items connected with Miss Anderson's work as a religious counselor.

Miss Anderson was born on a farm near LaMoille, Ill., where her father, now 93, still lives.

She attended the University of Chicago and received her master's

OLD SALT FINDS HIS MEMORIES "VERY SWEET"

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Fifty-odd years ago, Captain Bayard Foulke's father said hell wasn't hot enough yet for his seafaring son.

"And I guess it's still a little too cool for me," the salty old captain grins as he relives his days before the mast with paint and brush.

An ancient but lively mariner at 80, Cap'n Foulke took up painting when he quit the sea. Now, in a studio crowded with mementos of a busy and rambunctious past, he turns out paintings of the ships he once sailed.

"Never had a lesson in my life," he snorted over a whisky-and-water at a recent interview. "But there's no one can catch me up on how a ship is rigged. I may not be a great painter, but I know how a ship's sails should be."

Original New Yorker Bayard Fish Foulke, to give him his full name, was originally a New Yorker and is connected to a number of top social register families. He was born on his family's Oyster Bay, Long Island, estate, adjoining that of Theodore Roosevelt. His father, Theodore Brion Foulke, was once president of the New York Cotton Exchange.

As a youngster, Foulke spent his time painting boats and handling them on the waters of Long Island Sound. At 15, he was taking excursion parties out in his own 40-foot craft. He borrowed the money to buy it from his mother, and had almost enough to pay her back when the rest of the family found out what he was up to.

Official Impressed Once he was caught in a heavy fog on an excursion. His seamanship in bringing the boat back to the dock impressed one of the passengers, an official of an Atlantic and Bachelor of Divinity degree there and was ordained into the Congregational Church.

Was Field Worker She went to the Dakotas in 1940, serving as part-time minister and field worker among the Sioux Indians. Six years later, when the national office of the Congregational Church began planning a church school curriculum, someone on the staff was needed to explain it to the rural churches. That task fell to Miss Anderson.

Her orbit of travelling widened and her "pack" increased as she soon became an "information bureau" on any subject related to any department of the church. Finally it became obvious she needed a station wagon to haul the necessary equipment and a fund was started to supply one.

Churches all over the United States contributed nickels, dimes and pennies for the "traveling lady." That was five years ago, Miss Anderson got the station wagon and she's still going strong.

Feeds Pet Trout Wonderful Meal

JACKSON, Wis. (AP)—Clarence Gumm has learned that fish can develop an educated taste.

Latest Religious Novel, 'Eight Days'

NEW YORK (AP)—More novels are being based on religious themes these days. Latest in the trend is Gabriel Fielding's "Eight Days," published by Wm. Morrow & Co. It deals with a new Catholic convert's struggle to keep his faith in a highly charged unreligious atmosphere.

lantic passenger line, and young Foulke was offered a job. His father got wind of it and called him on the carpet.

"He sat there, twirling those long mustaches he wore, and asked me if I was determined to go to sea. I said yes, and the next day he got me a job on the Caracao, which some relatives of ours owned."

He bunked in the forecabin of the Caracao with 40 men and a full complement of roaches and bedbugs, and two weeks later found out that instead of a two-week cruise to South America, the ship was headed around Cape Horn to Australia.

Stuck With It That was the beginning of a three-year journey and a 50-year career at sea. He came back to Oyster Bay with a model of the Caracao whittled out of driftwood and his second mate's papers.

When the elder Foulke realized that his son was set on the sea, he delivered himself of the remark about the eternal fires. After World War I, he settled into a routine of merchant commands and finally decided to call it quits, since he was financially independent. His interest turned to painting. He started slowly and gradually mastered his new craft. Now he can turn out a major canvas in a couple of weeks, and smaller ones in a matter of days.

"I've had a long life and a happy one," he chuckled, lighting up one of the 20 cigars he smokes daily. "If the good Lord took me tomorrow, I'd be content, but I'd like to stay around as long as I can."

MARITAL RIFT PROBLEM FOR DECORATOR

CHICAGO (AP)—Take a husband and wife, each with strong wills; add a difficult decorating decision and what have you got?

A potential marital free-for-all, says Sydney Simon, an interior decorator by profession who sometimes thinks of himself as a marriage counselor besides.

Simon often finds himself called upon to settle disputes between husband and wife over choice of colors, fabrics or furnishings.

He does it by striking a happy medium between the tastes of the whole family.

"Men and women have radically different ideas on which comes first, comfort or style," says Simon.

Verge Of Divorce "One couple was on the verge of the divorce court when they came to see me."

The correspondent in the case was an old overstuffed easy chair.

"The husband had a particular fondness for this chair, which was man-sized and roomy, if something of an eyesore," says Simon. "His wife was bent on replacing it with something along more slender, modern lines."

Simon was called in when the quarrel had reached the silent treatment stage.

Suggests Solution He suggested reupholstering the chair in a muted color to harmonize with the rest of the room's interior.

Now, says Simon, husband and wife are living happily ever after.

"Women especially feel that home furnishings reflect their tastes to the rest of the neighborhood," explains Simon.

"Many are so afraid of making a mistake that they totter on the brink for weeks weighing one fabric swatch against another and being chronically undecided about overall color schemes."

Reconcile Views

Most husbands, he adds, can't tell French Provincial from American Shaker but if it's easy to relax with they like it.

Part of Simon's job is getting husband and wife to understand each other's viewpoint before he tries to then reconcile the two.

"Men want to know: Is this chair solid? Will it support a 280-pound frame?"

"Women are interested in the chair's usefulness, too, but they also want to know if it will fit into the living room they're dreaming of."

Color is the contender in many differences of opinion.

"Men tend to like strong blues, greens and browns, whereas women go in more for reds and yellows branching off into such refinements as cyclamen pink and hyacinth blue," says Simon.

Women's fashions nowadays have a decided influence on their taste in home furnishings.

Genevieve May Be Cast In A Musical

NEW YORK (AP)—Genevieve, the French singer who won attention on the Jack Paar television show, may come to Broadway in a musical especially tailored to her talents.

George Abbott, veteran producer-director-author has invited the dark-haired girl (full name Genevieve Auger) to head the cast in a show which he is now writing with John Allen.

Genevieve has toured the domestic scene in a road production of "Can-can," where she enacted the role created on the White Way by another one-name Parisienne, Lilo.

Polio Epidemic Is Over In Fiji Islands

SUVA, Fiji (AP)—The director of medical services says Suva is clear of poliomyelitis after an epidemic that lasted four months.

The Fiji Public Relations Office announced 313 cases were officially reported throughout Fiji during the epidemic. Seventy-five per cent of victims were children under 7 years. Four adults and four children died.

The native Fijian race was affected least. The greatest proportion of cases was among Europeans.

Means of anguish — both mental and physical — have replaced the cries of joy with which U.S. senators first greeted their new office building. The senators have a list of grievances that add up to half a million dollars or so in necessary modifications. And who will pay? Uncle Sam!

Voted for over a decade ago, the building was finished and waiting for the law makers at the end of the Easter recess. By and large, they liked what they saw — a gleaming seven-story structure of white Vermont marble with impressively big hearing rooms equipped with the latest in public address systems, handsome bronze light fixtures and heavy walnut doors.

But a tide of disillusionment followed the early wave of cheer as the senators began to find flaws in their $26 million quarters. Some went so far as to call it a "colossal blunder."

To their horror, senators discovered that—due to lowered doors and insufficient soundproofing—their private office conversations can be heard plainly in the public hallways.

Driveways to the two-level underground garage apparently were designed for cars of a bygone day. The low-slung 1959 models drag at the center on the incline's top and drag on both ends at the bottom.

This will be costly and complicated to fix because automatic electric snow-melting equipment is imbedded in the concrete drive.

In the hearing rooms, the senators sit on a raised dais that keeps them a considerable distance from witnesses and—with elections due soon—they no longer show up in the background when the witness is photographed.

Also, one committee worried that the senators when stepping from the raised dais into an adjoining room would neglect to make the step down — with disastrous consequences to their dignity and bone structure.

As a result a raised platform complete with shiny hand rails was extended into the adjoining rooms.

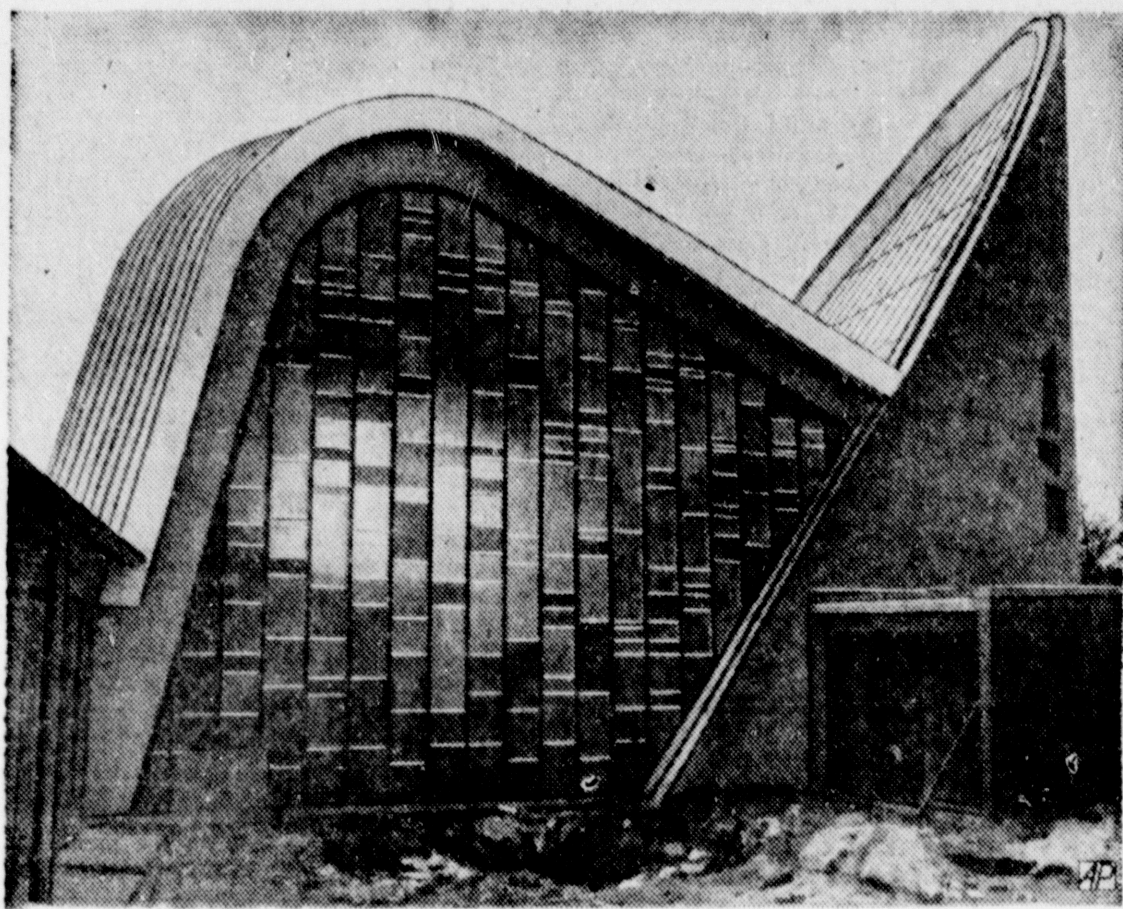

The office building was equipped with the latest in automatic elevators. But someone forgot that impatient senators traditionally buzz three times when they want immediate elevator service. The new machines are not set up to record anything beyond the first buzz.

As a stop gap, two elevators have been set aside for senators. Now the experts are trying to "retain" the elevators to recognize and answer a senator's urgent call.

Two girls already have been hospitalized from falls on the expensive but slick, rubber tile flooring used through most of the building. And the tile does nothing to absorb the clatter of office machines. Result: wall-to-wall carpeting is being proposed for all offices at a cost of $150,000. The new desks for the senator's employees proved to be so low slung that secretaries could not get their legs under them. Solution was simple if crude—wooden blocks were installed under the desk legs.

In the new hearing rooms each senator is provided with individual control buttons to turn his microphone on and off. In practice frustrated lawmakers have found themselves talking into dead mikes one minute and having their private asides to their neighbors broadcast to the room the next.

And the amplifying system is hooked to the bell systems by which senators are summoned to the floor for important votes. The bells are designed to have a soft, soothing tone but they hoot like a fog horn when amplified by the speaker system. When it comes to placing the blame the collective senatorial face turns red. Design and construction were supervised and approved every step of the way by the Senate Office Building Commission—a group of senators chosen by the Senate itself.

Driving on your vacation this year? If so, you'll see a lot of road signs. Just how well do you know them—the "signs of life" for you and your family? Take this test and find out.

1. An eight-sided sign—red with white lettering — means (a) no passing, (b) stop, (c) yield right-of-way.

2. Rectangular signs—white with black (or other color) lettering state the (a) road conditions, (b) altitude, (c) law.

3. The newest of the standard traffic signs—the triangle —is yellow with black lettering. It means you should (a) yield right-of-way, (b) stop,

(c) expect a railroad crossing ahead.

4. A round yellow sign ahead means just one thing—you're approaching a (a) dead end, (b) school crossing, (c) railroad crossing.

5. A diamond-shaped sign tells of (a) unusual conditions ahead, (b) a roadside park, (c) a hospital zone.

Answers:

1. (b) Come to a full stop opposite any eight-sided sign, whether it's red with white lettering or yellow with black lettering. Both signs mean stop. And be sure the way's clear before proceeding.

2. (c) The signs state the law—for example, speed limits, parking restrictions and turning and passing regulations.

3. (a) This means you're required to slow down or stop for other cars at intersections. Even if the intersection isn't marked with a yield right-of-way sign, it's smart to let the other car go ahead, the National Safety Council says. "Better to lose a right and save your life."

4. (c) According to the council, you should always be ready to stop when approaching a railroad crossing.

5. (a) Diamond-shaped signs warn of any dangerous or unusual conditions ahead—curves, side roads, hills, intersections, dips, bumps or school zones. Use extra caution until you've passed the danger zone, the council warns.

"Traffic signs, signals and devices and pavement markings," it says, "are signs of life — your life lines. They protect you. Respect them."

The following is a reprint of a recent edition of The Baltimore Sun:

The National Park Service and Civil War enthusiasts are concerned over the encroachment of motels, hamburger and soft drink stands, garish signboards and other like evidences of commercialism on the sacred soil of the Gettysburg Battlefield. Anxiety has been increased since a House committee cut out of the Interior Department budget a park service request earmarked for the purchase by the government of 600 more acres of battlefield land.

Desecration of the battlefield is deplored by everybody but its prevention is not the responsibility alone of the federal government. The people of the town and its environs on which most of the battle was fought have a large share as Representative Quigley, whose constituency includes them, has pointed out. He proposes that the local authorities establish zoning to prevent further commercialization.

Even if funds were appropriated for the purchase of the 600 acres it would only correct past errors. Zoning would offer permanent protection and remove the necessity of appealing periodically to the federal government to buy more land. Mr. Quigley sees a better chance of the appropriation being restored by the Senate if the people of Gettysburg exert an effort to help themselves.

The battlefield is Gettysburg's greatest commercial asset. It attracts around 750,000 tourists a year and the number is expected to be greatly augmented during the centennial celebration in 1961-65. Tourists of course want places where they can buy souvenirs. But there is a limit to how much of this sort of thing can be tolerated without destroying the main attraction which is the battlefield.

It would be hard to find a case where intelligent zoning is so essential to commercial enterprise.

Fashion is a fickle goddess whose head has been turned by everything from bunsions and bets to politics and even the winds of chance.

A London dress designer, for example, recently attributed the popularity of the sack dress to a reaction against the curves of two actresses.

Queen Victoria reacted differently, however, when Albert cast admiring eyes on a Scottish peasant girl dressed in a red flannel petticoat.

The queen ordered a red flannel petticoat for herself, and began the fashion typical of her reign.

The French Revolution took the frills out of Parisian dress for a while, and substituted its own somber tone. The guillotine left its mark in the Titus coiffure, cut very close at the back with the front arranged in loose ringlets. A red necklace was worn, and sometimes a red shawl, to complete the effect.

Another hair style was initiated by accident, when the wind blew off the hat of the Duchess of Fontanges at a royal hunting party. The resourceful duchess tied up her hair with her ribbon garter. The next day, all the court ladies appeared with a headress "a la Fontanges."

The wife of an Austrian archduke introduced a new color by airing her dirty linen. Isabella had vowed not to change her linen until her armies had taken the town of Ostend. The siege lasted more than three years. And for more than a century after, fashionable men and women dressed in yellow-gray, dubbed "Isabella color."

During the Middle Ages, long-toed shoes denoted wealth and dignity. The style has been blamed by some on a Frenchman who reportedly invented it to hide the huge bunions on his feet.

About the year 1800, Lord Spencer set out to expose the capricious fashion world. He is said to have made a bet that he could launch a meaningless fashion that would become popular in six months. Whereupon he cut off his coattails with a pair of shears and went out for a walk. In two weeks, all London had adopted the style, and the spencer jacket was born.

The first Parisian fashion model was a doll. Six hundred years ago the French sent these "fashion babies" to other lands to display the latest dress and hair styles.

The term "pin money" comes from the time when pins were scarce and valuable, and were sold only on the first two days of the year. Wealthy women flocked to the shops to buy the pins with money provided for this purpose by their husbands.

It wasn't hard for a fashionable man to trip over his own feet during the Middle Ages. One kind of a shoe had a pointed toe so long that a chain had to be used to hold it up so the wearer could walk.

FRESH FRUIT DISHES GOOD FOR DIETERS

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
The Associated Press

Thank weight-watchers for a delicious trend. They've helped put fresh fruit desserts — up to now probably more appreciated in Europe than in modern America — back in our culinary spotlight.

Nowadays wherever you go in this country a bowl of fresh fruit may put in an appearance at the end of a meal. Grandmother's fruit knives and forks have come out of hiding to use with apples, pears, oranges, tangerines, persimmons. Fresh fruit is getting the works.

Often the fruit is accompanied by a cheese tray. So many good varieties of cheese, such as Camembert and Blue, are made in this country and are of fine quality.

Poached or baked fresh fruit served with a sauce, can do double duty. Calorie-conscious eaters can eschew the accompaniment, tasters without weight cares can enjoy it.

One of the best fruit desserts in the whole wide world we ate at a dinner party at Jim Beard's house. Jim, known for his many fine cook books, peeled fresh uncured pears and left their stems on. These he poached in a vanilla-flavored syrup, drained them and stood them up in a shallow white straight-sided dish with fluted edges. He brought the pears to the table along with a rich-as-Croesus thin custard sauce — made with plentiful egg yolks and heavy cream — into which he had stirred pruned filberts. (The nuts were caramelized with white sugar, cooled and crushed.)

For family use, we give you baked pears with a less rich custard sauce made fluffy with beaten egg whites.

BAKED PEARS WITH FLUFFY CUSTARD SAUCE

Ingredients: 6 ripe but firm Anjou pears, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup water, salt, 2 or 3 thin lemon slices. Fluffy Custard Sauce.

Method: If necessary to have pears stand straight, cut a thin slice off blossom end; leave stems on but remove skin. Stand pears upright in baking dish; a round heat-resistant glass casserole (10 inches across top and 3 1/2 inches deep) is fine. Meanwhile put sugar, water, a dash of salt and lemon slices in a small saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves; bring to boiling; pour over pears. Cover Bake 30 minutes; remove cover. Continue baking until pears are tender when pierced; baste often. Baking time will depend upon size and ripeness of fruit. Serve with Fluffy Custard Sauce. Makes 6 servings.

FLUFFY CUSTARD SAUCE

Ingredients: 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, salt, 2 eggs (separated) 1 cup homogenized milk or light cream, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Method: In the top part of a double boiler, stir together 2 tablespoons sugar, the cornstarch and a dash of salt. Stir in egg yolks; gradually whisk in milk. Cook over hot (not boiling) water stirring constantly until mixture coats a metal spoon. Beat egg whites until they stand in curved peaks; gradually beat in remaining 2 tablespoons sugar; fold or beat gently into hot custard. Makes 3 cups.

Lawyer's Slip Ends Trial Before Start

HONOLULU (AP)—A slip of a lawyer's tongue ended a damage suit trial here even before it got started.

Attorney Myer Symonds, questioning the first prospective juror, asked if she had ever been insured by an insurance company. The opposing lawyer challenged the question and the judge declared a mistrial.

Symonds said later he had intended to ask whether the juror had ever been employed by an insurance company.

Wonder Drugs Are Making Orphanages Thing Of Past

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — The orphan, forlorn and alone in the world, has all but vanished from the American scene.

Ahead of him into obsolescence has plunged that old-fashioned institution, the orphan asylum.

Credit for this goes primarily to science and medicine. Research, wonder drugs, antibiotics, vaccines and improvements in surgical techniques are keeping so many people alive today that the number of children who have lost both parents has dropped a dramatic 93 per cent in the past 40 years.

The almost fantastic decrease in the nation's death rate and the increased life expectancy of the average citizen cut the number of new orphans to 52,000 last year. If life and death conditions prevailing in 1920 had remained unchanged, the figure would have been 750,000.

Since 1937 alone the chemical revolution in medicine has kept alive more than three million people. Dr. C. C. Dauer of the U. S. Public Health Service estimates that between 1938 and 1952 1½ million lives were saved by antibiotics — more than a million of whom would have, in other days, succumbed to pneumonia and influenza.

Dramatic Results
The fact that more people are staying alive and that people are living longer has had a particularly dramatic effect on children. At the moment, for instance, there are about 2,700,000 children in this country who are under 18 and have lost one or both parents. Had it not been for the improvement in the nation's health, there would be close to 10 million.

The fast diminishing numbers of orphans logically would have had the effect of putting the hundreds of orphanages in the nation out of business. It has come, however, at a time when there has been vastly increased understanding of children and their problems. The result has been that the number of institutions for children has remained almost static since 1920 at about 1,600.

Few Still Function
But today few of these institutions are orphanages. They are almost entirely diagnostic and treatment centers for disturbed children, retarded children, children with special problems who need special treatment.

Many of them have retained, for sentimental or traditional reasons, their old names. One famous home for "foundlings" still keeps its name but its emphasis has shifted from door-step babies to the placement of children for adoption or in foster homes and to treatment of the disturbed or neglected.

Today, too, good practice demands that fully orphaned children be placed quickly in adoptive homes rather than cared for in institutions. Sometimes half-orphaned are placed in foster homes for short-term or long-term care. And in many instances, public welfare funds are provided for a widowed mother so she can keep her family together.

Institutions Are Harmful
With increased knowledge of children's needs, child experts are convinced today that, unless circumstances are unusual, institutional care is actually harmful for children under 6, including infants. Thus scores of communities have closed orphanages and rely on foster homes instead.

"Communities which persist in providing long institutional care for forsaken children are literally endangering the lives of those 50 children," said John A. Reid, executive secretary of the Child Welfare League of America. "There is clear evidence that a much higher incidence of mental disturbance and stunted physical and mental development exists in children who have been subjected to this type of care, regardless of the quality of the care."

The shift in child care technique and the scarcity of orphans has resulted, too, in a marked drop in the numbers of children involved in what social workers now call "group living" — institutions. In 1933 there were about 144,000 in what once were called orphanages. At the last count — 1957 — the number had dropped to 87,000 and is still decreasing. Most of them were disturbed children, or those who were taken out of unstable homes, broken homes, disturbed homes — but at least 50 per cent were expected to return to family living in less than two years.

The Rochester Democrat Chronicle recently published an editorial "How to Mess Up a U. S. Shrine." It follows in full:

The tourist season is almost with us and it seems appropriate to note the latest of many examples of how America fouls its historic nest.

This example is Gettysburg. "We are fighting the second Battle of Gettysburg now," writes a former Rochesterian, a friend of this department, who moved to near the historic spot. "Commercialism threatens to take over the battlefield so that by 1963 you will have to hunt for the monuments between hot dog stands, motels and gift shops."

He enclosed newspaper stories and picture layouts from papers as far away as Washington. Shocking stuff. General George Meade's council headquarters now is within 100 yards of where a miniature golf course and a man-made fantasy land are planned. Souvenir shops, beer parlors, an auto junk yard, a housing subdivision, commercial establishments and signs spatter the consecrated area where 160,000 men from the North and South fought a battle that helped determine the nation's course for all time to come.

The National Park Service is asking Congress for $750,000 for fiscal 1960 to buy up 360 strategic acres around the Gettysburg National Military Park. The House whacked off all money for battlefield land acquisition, and now NPS is hoping the Senate will restore the funds. Hearings are scheduled before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee.

Our sorrow at this mess is mixed with a measure of disbelief. Cannot our great, proud, free, rich America somehow find the way to preserve such a heritage as this against desecration? Is this tragic commercialization inevitable? Cannot Congress help us to save a symbol of the very heritage of which it

THOUSANDS OF KURDS FLEE RULE BY REDS

Editor's note: — One of the weapons the Soviet Union is employing to maintain ferment in the Middle East is the desire of the Kurd tribes for independence. AP Foreign News Analyst William L. Ryan, making another tour of the perennially troubled area, reports from the Iran-Iraq border on strong anti-Communist feelings among some of the Kurds.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
PASVEH, Iran (AP)—Thousands of Kurd tribesmen have fled across the rugged northwest Iranian frontier from Iraq rather than submit to domination by a pro-Communist chieftain.

There was sharp fighting in the frontier area as recently as four days ago, when about 5,000 Kurds crossed into Iran. Others of the tribe have fled into Turkey.

This information comes from Amir Aly Asbeyara, the head khan (landlord) of a huge area occupied by Kurds of the Mamash tribe. He owns this village and about 150 other Kurdish villages in the southwestern part of Iran's Azerbaijan Province, only a few miles from the Iraqi border.

Fifteen Were Killed
The Kurds, under a leader identified as Sheik Raschid, left 13 Barzani tribesmen dead after a fight with them and Iraqi gendarmes. The khan said Raschid lost two dead and had two wounded.

The Barzanis are followers of Mullah Mustafa Barzani, who spent a dozen years in exile in the Soviet Union after an abortive attempt to establish a satellite Kurdistan in Iran, Iraq and Turkey.

The khan said Sheik Raschid's people lacked sufficient ammunition to continue the battle and had to flee. He said the 1,000 refugee families now live in tent settlements not far from here.

Easy To Get Lost
Apparently many Kurds preceded Raschid's people across the frontier in a migration which began soon after the Iraqi revolution last July. This country is so rugged, vast and underpopulated that it is easy for Kurds to lose themselves in it.

This village is not likely to appear on many maps, but its leader is an influential Kurd, ruling about 20,000 people. His home is a hilltop dominating the primitive mud hut village and overlooking a valley richly green with winter wheat. Towering snowcap mountains surround the fertile valley.

The khan leases the land to his followers, taking a percentage of their production in payment. To Kurds this is normal.

Fiercely Anti-Red
Amir Aly is fiercely anti-Communist and says all his people are too. Most Kurds are equally anti-Communist, he maintains. He says the Soviets have no chance to promote another Kurdish uprising as they did 13 years ago, when Burzani with Soviet backing tried to set up an independent Kurdistan in northern Iraq and Iran.

Amir Aly, a educated, cultured man, remembers Barzani with bitterness and says the Mullah's followers murdered his brother, uncle and four nephews in a massacre of anti-Communist elements in Azerbaijan Province in 1946.

Coexistence Impossible
Coexistence with the Communists is impossible, he declared, "like the coexistence of fire and water."

"We are not afraid of the Russians," he commented grimly. "They won't put a foot in Iran unless they are ready for World War III."

Emotional Disturbance Is Routed By Self Discipline

By CONNIE COURTEAU

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A fear of dirt and germs hit Mary like a bolt out of the blue.

"I became obsessed with washing my hands. The next 14 years were hell in a vacuum," she said. "I would spend hours washing, using up a whole cake of soap. My hands became bloody and swollen, the bones almost showing through in some places." She tried psychiatry, shock treatments and a lobotomy operation which cuts off parts of the brain controlling emotions. It often relieves anxiety and panic.

But nothing worked for Mary. Then she heard about Recovery, Inc., from another mental hospital patient.

Started 21 Years Ago
Mary's hell is ended now. And the story of how it ended is the story of Recovery, Inc., and two people.

Dr. Abraham Low, a Chicago psychiatrist, started the organization 21 years ago. In the last eight years, it has spread nationally through the efforts of Mrs. Cleo Dieruf, a local civic leader. Mrs. Dieruf turned to Recovery when a relative became mentally ill.

After a course of study in Chicago, she launched a drive to open Recovery units across the nation. There are now chapters in 101 cities.

Basically, Recovery is similar to Alcoholics Anonymous. The idea is to control emotional problems through will power and self-discipline. Those who stick with it seem to succeed.

Meetings are held several times a week to discuss problems and how they can be solved. If a member needs help at other times, he simply telephones another member and they discuss the situation.

One of Thousands

Mary, a 35-year-old confidential secretary, is one of thousands who have joined Recovery. It was four months before the program succeeded with her.

"One day I decided to make myself do the thing I feared. I cleaned up the yard. It was fall and the leaves were filthy wet. Then I cleaned up the street. My mother stood like a statue in the window."

She still fights the symptoms of her phobia but they are less severe.

"I can control them. I know I have friends to help and a renewed faith in myself."

Today she is a Recovery leader, helping others follow the stringent rules laid down in Dr. Low's controversial book, "Mental Health Through Will Training."

He discards Freud in favor of will power and maintains that psychoanalysis is an ineffective treatment.

Little Professional Support

Only one of five psychiatrists questioned here was favorable toward the book. Nor did they go along with Mrs. Dieruf's theory: "You have to be sick and tired of being sick and tired before you can really practice Recovery. Those who really practice the program stay out of mental hospitals."

Said one psychiatrist:

"There are many kinds of mental illness, and you must pick the treatment to fit the illness as physicians pick the treatment to

PILFERER

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A fireman of five years seniority was charged here after he admitted turning in two false alarms within 17 minutes. He was accused of rifling fellow workers' lockers while they were out looking for non-existent blazes.

Shortest priced favorite to win a Yonkers harness feature in 1958 was Trader Horn. He returned $2.80 winning the Gotham Trot Free-for-All.

Recovery has 900 members in Louisville alone.

Clubhouse Donated

The clubhouse, a two-story remodeled residence, was donated. The $13,750 needed to buy the property was provided by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times Foundation.

Mrs. Dieruf then talked to local contractors, unions, decorators and businessmen. The result was a beautiful $20,000 remodeling job, also donated.

"All I had to do was ask for five minutes of someone's time. When they heard the story they all helped," Mrs. Dieruf said.

"It proved one of our pet theories. There is no such phrase as 'I can't' in Recovery, Inc."

BE GRADUATION
SPEAKER AT HS

The speaker for the annual high school commencement program was announced, one new teacher was elected and the budget was adopted at the meeting of the Littlestown Joint School Board Tuesday evening at the high school. Dr. Herbert Bryan, New Oxford, a member of the staff of the state Department of Public Instruction, will be the speaker at commencement exercises on Wednesday, May 27, in the high school auditorium.

The teacher committee, Ray T. Harner, chairman, recommended the election of Kenneth H. Reinman, W. King St., as a sixth grade teacher and the recommendation was accepted by the board. A budget of $350,460 was adopted. Lloyd E. Crouse reported on the progress of plans for the proposed new senior high school building, noting that the core boring has been completed by the Thomasville Drilling and Testing Company.

Ask Bids For Summer Work
Vernon Shields, of C. L. Forrer and Associates, architects, was in attendance and explained the plans and specifications drawn up to cover the changes required by the state for fire safety in the high school. Advertising for bids was authorized. The work must be completed by August 15. The board also directed the property and supplies committee to have necessary maintenance work done, within the limits of the budget, in the way of painting and other repairs in the high school. This work must be completed during the summer months.

The transportation committee authorized advertising for bids for a new 66-passenger bus. An eight-hour adult driver training course will be made available. As the program is no longer sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction, it will be necessary for the individual participants to pay the costs involved in the course of instruction. The 1959-1960 treasurer of Union Township will automatically become treasurer of the board beginning July 1.

Daniel E. Teeter was re-elected as jointure solicitor for the 1959-1960 term.

Principal Reports
The report of Supervising Principal Paul E. King revealed 160 days of the term had been taught at the end of April and that there were 672 pupils in Grades 1 to 6 and 513 pupils in Grades 7 to 12. National merit scholarships were given to the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh grade students; school elections were held on May 1. The FHA girls made a field trip to Peach Glen Packing House on April 24. The third grade students toured the Littletonian Shoe factory on May 11. Grade school promotion exercises will be held on May 24 with the Rev. William R. Jones as speaker and commencement on May 27. There were 24,296 meals served during the 22 days of operation in the cafeteria, an average of 1,103 meals a day.

Principal King presented the report of School Nurse Brenda B. Walker, noting that there were 15 home calls during the month and 190 first aid treatments at school, with six pupils requiring further treatment at the doctor's office and one requiring x-ray at the hospital. Home-bound instruction arrangements were completed for one eighth grade student, ill with rheumatic fever, and Mrs. Elmer W. Gall will be the teacher. The general health of the pupils is good, the report said. Mrs. Walker attended a forum on special problems of youth in Harrisburg on April 19, and an all day session on mental health sponsored by the Pennsylvania School Nurses' Association at the Holiday Motel on May 2.

The treasurer's report revealed receipts for April totaling $28,988.94 and expenditures as follows: general control, $62.50; instruction $24,471.71; auxiliary agencies, $1,281.24; coordinate activities, $425.44; operation of plants, $3,515.86; maintenance of plants, $716.17; fixed charges, $212.17, a total expended of $30,685.08.

Present at the joint board meeting on Tuesday night were President Dale W. Starry, Wilbur E. Mackley, John Schwartz, Ray T. Harner, George W. Stervig, Lloyd E. Crouse, Clement B. Hawn, Bernard Murren, Lewis C. V. Lippy, Daniel Bair, Joseph Clabaugh, Wade H. Brown, Clayton Harget, Bernard Hess, Bernard W. Dutterer, Glenn Bowers, George Worley, Fred Hartlaub, Karl P. Bankert, Henry Waltman, secretary; Paul E. King, principal, and Vernon Shields, York.

The board will meet again on Tuesday, June 9, at 8 p.m.

Special Town Board Session
There was a lengthy discussion concerning the tax budget at the May session of the Littlestown Borough School Board on Tuesday night at the high school building. No decision was reached concerning an increase in the tax rate. Further information on the matter will be presented at a special meeting of the directors on Friday night at the high school.

Karl P. Bankert, president, presided. Also in attendance were Wilbur E. Mackley, Lloyd E. Crouse, Henry E. Waltman and the secretary, Luther W. Ritter. Treasurer Crouse reported receipts as follows: $178.50, per capita taxes, and $486.15, real

Crewman Is Killed, Others

Hits Hangar While Landing

By RUSSELL H. MULLEN

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — One crewman was killed early today when a silvery Navy blimp crashed into a hangar while attempting to land in a dense fog. Six crewmen were hospitalized and several others suffered minor injuries.

The wreckage was wedged in the hangar roof 150 feet above the ground.

Rescue workers clambered over the roof and removed the injured crewmen who had been trapped in the blimp's gondola.

Names of the dead man and the injured were withheld by the Navy pending notification of next of kin.

Freak Accident

The freak accident left the wreckage near the top of the 150-foot high hangar. The whole roof-top was shrouded by the limp folds of the blimp's great gas bag.

Rescuers had to reach the scene with aerial ladders and then tunnel beneath the deflated bag to reach the gondola car where the injured lay. It had rammed partially through the hangar roof and remained stuck fast.

The ZPG-2 blimp was returning from a routine 21-hour anti-submarine patrol early this morning. It was making a radar-controlled instrument approach through a swirling fog that blanketed out everything more than 100 feet away.

"Fog Was Bad"

"They probably never saw the ground until after the hit," said Lt. Cmdr. Herman Spahr, administrative officer of Squadron 3 to which the craft was attached.

"The fog was so bad we radioed the blimp to gain altitude and try to come in again," said Spahr. It was just picking up speed to 45 miles an hour when it hit.

The huge bag was ripped by the wreckage and its million cubic feet of helium whooshed out through its rent sides. The gas is non-inflammable and dispersed without harm into the fog.

Rescuers at first were unable to locate four officers and two men beneath the entangling sheets of the 343-foot long bag. They were found in the fore part of the metal alloy gondola.

Pry Officer Loose

After almost five hours one of the officers was prised loose. He was taken down a ladder strapped in a litter. The shirt of one of the litter bearers was smeared with blood.

The crew members in the rear of the car were unhurt and made their way down ladders to safety.

Spahr said rescuers had talked to the two trapped officers but were having difficulty freeing them.

Spahr said the landing was a "routine instrument approach, the same kind the commercial airlines make."

There was a total of eight officers and 10 enlisted men aboard. Spahr said the blimp was about two years old. It is made up of the sausage-shaped balloon that holds the helium and the gondola car that hangs below it. The blimp's two motors are attached to the gondola.

College Prof. To Get Fellowship

Prabhakar S. Akolekar, instructor in economics at Gettysburg College, has been selected to receive one of 50 fellowships for the 1959 Economics-In-Action program June 13 to July 11 at Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland.

"It has been a difficult job to select candidates from among the many college teachers who have indicated their interest in the program, and you are to be congratulated for being chosen," Samuel J. Mantel Jr., economics fellowship director, said in a letter to Akolekar, a native of India. The grant includes payment of all expenses.

the cost of constructing a new physical science building.

The GSA board in June 1958 approved an allocation of $658,000 for the building and $42,000 for equipment. Low bids for construction received on April 29, 1959, totaled $638,513, or $19,487 under the approved allocation.

The university then requested that the board permit the equipment allocation to be increased to $61,487 to allow for the purchase of the laboratory tables.

The university said the original estimate for equipment did not include replacement of laboratory tables, some 30 years old, because it was thought there would not be enough money.

The GSA board's approval of the request was unanimous.

Reports 2/3 U. S.
Ministers In Debt

NEW YORK (AP) — The average weekly income for a U. S. clergyman with seven years education is $85.30 — a little above that of a janitor in a large city, writes Willard A. Pleuthner in "This Week" magazine.

Pleuthner, New York public relations executive, says studies show two-thirds of the nation's 200,000 ministers are in debt, and their wives often are forced to take jobs to maintain their families.

It will ultimately be the congregation and its children who will suffer for this financial neglect of the clergymen by discouraging talented men from entering the ministry, the article says.

Appler Again Asks Public To Notify Post Office Here Of Obscene Material In Mail

The following is the second appeal from Postmaster Jacob Appler for public support and cooperation to rid the mails of obscene literature and photographs.

The American public, if it wants to, can destroy the half billion dollar a year mail-order business in obscenity which is having such disastrous effects on teen-age youngsters. Postmaster Jacob Appler said today.

The judgment as to what is obscene is actually in the hands of the citizens of Gettysburg and other communities throughout the nation, the postmaster emphasized; and the final judgment in these matters is the conscience of these awakened communities.

"We can keep obscene mail out of Gettysburg if enough citizens become aware of the seriousness of this problem and use their influence to do so," Appler continued. "We must do so to protect our homes, curb juvenile delinquency, and prevent the poisoning of the minds of our children."

File Complaints

All the average citizen needs do if his home is invaded by unsorted and unwanted mail soliciting the sale of filthy, lewd and lascivious films, slides, pictures or other obscene and pornographic material is to complain to the Post Office Department. This is done by mailing the objectionable material itself, and the envelope it came in, with a signed note of protest to the local postmaster.

An investigation is then made by the Post Office Department's Inspection Service. If their findings justify action to ban the material from the mails, the Department's general counsel then issues such an order. If the sender of the obscene literature protests the department's ruling, the matter may then be taken to the nearest United States District Court for decision.

Criminal Action

Where the material in question is clearly pornographic, criminal action is usually taken by the local prosecuting authorities with the cooperation of the Post Office Department. Convictions in such cases provide for both jail and dollar fines for the dealers in obscenity.

Testimony given recently in Washington by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield before the Subcommittee of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee indicates that no longer do dealers in smut and dirty pictures serve only a few adults. Instead, they are increasingly soliciting youngsters, sending their unwanted and unsorted material indiscriminately and without conscience into the home of the nation.

Postmaster Appler emphasized that the Post Office Department is intensifying its efforts to clean up the mails. Its chief opposition in doing so comes from those who reap huge profits from unrestricted mailings, and from some misguided individuals who confuse liberty with license and, in so doing, unwittingly give aid to these dealers in obscenity.

Aimed At Children

Congressman Kathryn E. Granahan, chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Subcommittee on obscene literature, aptly summed up this apparent confusion in the minds of some recently by stating "There are those who express concern about their constitutional right of free speech and free press. I would like to point out in this connection that there are many situations where a certain freedom might apply to adults but will not apply to children. For example, the selling of alcoholic beverages to minors is prohibited; children under a certain age are not permitted to drive an automobile; and they are not admitted to see certain movies if they are minors. However, experience clearly demonstrates that the wholesale circularization and uncontrolled dissemination of obscene material always brings a good deal of it into the hands of children and teen-age youth."

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, in discussing the scope of the social menace, has publicly stated that "It is my deep conviction — frequently expressed to individual members of this Congressional Committee, religious and educational leaders, newspaper editors, and serious groups — that one of the most serious moral and social problems in the United States today is the multi-million dollar mail order traffic in obscenity."

"In spite of the frustrations and the legal complications, and even the court decisions, I feel a responsibility to the public to attempt to prevent the use of the mails for indecent material, and to seek indictments and prosecutions for such offenses, even though it may be argued that it falls in the category of material concerning which there have been previous rulings favorable to the promoters. It seems to me that only by this method can the dimensions of this problem become clearly established before the courts and the Congress and the American public."

Memorial Service At Barts Sunday

The annual memorial service of the Barts EUB Church, Hanover, Pa., will be observed Sunday. Sunday School will be at 1:45 p.m. and the memorial service at 2:30 p.m. with the Rev. Roland E. Garvin, pastor of the Newburg EUB Church, as speaker. The Rev. Roland Garvin is the son of the Rev. A. W. Garvin.

Ray Christ, of Shoemakersville, and his daughter, Janet, will furnish the music for the services. The public is invited.

It's off to Berwick, Pa., for the 92-piece New Oxford High School Band (pictured above in their new uniforms) this afternoon to return an exchange concert on Saturday. The Berwick Band played at New Oxford in April. The local band members will be entertained in the homes of Berwick students while preparing for the concert. The Colonial Band will leave New Oxford late this afternoon by special chartered buses. Many band parents are planning to journey to Berwick to hear the concert on Saturday and to tour the new Berwick High School just recently completed. Donald L. World Briefs

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—About 500 Honduran rebels were reported in flight Wednesday after an unsuccessful attempt to seize Gracias, an old trading center near the Guatemalan frontier. The government said civilians helped troops rout the armed band when it attacked Gracias, the capital of Lempira state, on Monday night.

The attack on Gracias was the latest in a series of attempts to spark off a revolution since President Ramon Villeda Morales came to power 18 months ago.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Communists shelled Peikantang Island in the Matsu group Tuesday night for the first time this year.

The Reds fired 23 shells at the 2½ square miles of island only 7 miles off the mainland. The 14-minute attack came on an even-numbered day, when the Communist guns on the mainland facie the Quemoy and other Nationalist offshore islands normally are silent.

PANAMA (AP)—Panama's government has told Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to watch his tongue if he has hopes of getting back 66 Cubans who invaded Panama in an abortive attempt to a revolution.

Foreign Minister Miguel Moreno Jr. Tuesday rejected a request for repatriation of the Cubans made by Cuban Under Secretary of State Eric Aguero. Moreno told Aguero that the possibilities of repatriation were not helped by Castro's criticisms of President Ernesto de la Guardia's government for getting the help of the Organization of American States against the invaders.

ALGIERS (AP)—The restive Europeans of Algiers has boycotted an army parade and demonstration commemorating last year's coup which brought President De Gaulle back to power. Most of the city's European population stayed home to demonstrate their growing discontent with De Gaulle's Algerian policy. The army funneled thousands of Moslems into the vast forum square and by loudspeaker led them in cheers of "Algeria is French" but most of the Europeans to be seen were territorial

IKE'S PROD ON LEGISLATION IS SURPRISE

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may have put not only the Democratic Congress but himself on a political spot with his demand for speedy action on highway, housing and wheat legislation.

Eisenhower caught the Democrats by surprise Wednesday with a special message outlining the damage to the economy that may result in these three politically potent fields if Congress dawdles.

There seemed little doubt that Democrats will answer the President's request for emergency action with passage of a series of bills calling for government spending far beyond the limits Eisenhower has said he is willing to accept.

Veto May Be Difficult

Because he emphasized the critical nature of the problems, Democrats think the President has put himself in a position where he may find it difficult to veto such measures.

Beyond that, the opposition party believes it can use the President's own words — such as his statement there is an "impending disaster in wheat" — to build up strength for attempts to override any vetoes that may be forthcoming.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, acting Senate Democratic leader, made it clear his party has no intention of yielding to Eisenhower's views on important aspects of highway, housing and wheat legislation. A similar reaction came from House Democratic leaders.

College Will

ily. Hundreds of regional and local workers have found employment on the college campus in the construction of new buildings.

"The college makes our community a better place in which to live. The college affords, through its generosity in opening its gates to the local community, marvelous opportunities in continuing education. The well-balanced sports program has always been considered by Gettysburg College as important. The college personnel play an important part in the religious life of the community. And the college has provided in its 127-year history an outstanding proportion of the leaders of our community.

Urges County Support

"Adams County must certainly should support wholeheartedly the present development program. From a material standpoint alone, it is obvious that every dollar expended for the college has some advantage to each community member.

"I believe, however, that it is important to consider this campaign from another, more critical, viewpoint. I take it that a challenge has been issued, created by the times in which we live, to determine whether Gettysburg College and its sister independent, liberal arts colleges shall continue to exist, free and independent. I believe that it is well recognized that only voluntary contributions of people interested in preserving the traditions upon which the college was founded will meet the threat of political control and the needs of an expanding population. I am quite confident that we shall do the job," Brown declared.

Three-Part Campaign

The overall campaign during 1959 is in three parts. Solicitation of friends of the college in a position to make very substantial "leadership" gifts has already begun. The Adams County campaign is second. In the fall, college alumni will be solicited. During 1960 a campaign will be held in Lutheran churches.

A radio program devoted to the Adams County drive will be broadcast over WGET Friday at 8:30 a.m. Atty. Brown, Dr. Harold A. Dunkelberger, assistant to the college president for development, and Douglas Young, fund raising counselor, will speak.

Following the Mass, breakfast was served to the children in the cafeteria of St. Joseph's High School by members of the Sodality.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

FAITH THAT AMERICANS LIVE BY — 7

With man on the threshold of space exploration, I cornered one of America's leading space scientists in a Buffalo hotel and asked him if faith would be significant to the first space man.

"It will be important to him," said Dr. Everett T. Welmers, who is assistant to the president of Bell Aircraft for long range planning, and director of the Research Center, "because in the loneliness of space he will know he is not alone."

There is no contradiction, he went on, between religion and science. "One of the first commandments of the Bible is that man should take dominion over and conquer the earth. Man is expected to understand and control it. Science helps towards that end."

As for his own faith, Dr. Welmers asserted, "It's been a natural part of my life since childhood."

On Sundays, he teaches the men's Bible class in Central Presbyterian Church. He has been an elder, a Sunday school superintendent, president of the presbytery council. Also he is a vice president of the New York Synod Council of Presbyterian Men.

"I feel I'm accomplishing as much on Sunday morning," he commented, "as any other day. Accomplishments in the field of religion are as real as in the field of science."

the plane "over Yellow Hill. It seemed to be in trouble. The motor would stop and it would glide and then the motor would start again. This happened two or three times. Then he was right over the hill where he crashed and he seemed to be nosing down and the motor started going fast and I expected to see the plane head up, but it never came out of the dive."

John Black and Earl Garretson were others residing in the area who heard the crash. Some said they thought at first it was thunder.

Body Torn Apart

The plane had gouged a hole about two feet deep, five wide and ten feet long almost in the center of the oat field. A piece of the propeller was in the hole, another piece nearby. The twisted fuselage and parts of the wing were found 40 feet away. The other half of the wing was more than 200 feet further north. Other pieces of metal and parts of the plane were strewn about the field. Donoughe had been literally torn apart. Much of the torso and one leg were found crushed inside the metal fragments of the fuselage. Crushed portions were found beside the plane. Other pieces were scattered over a wide area.

Firemen Are Called

The portion of the body in the crushed wreckage could not be removed until after the aeronautics inspectors arrived and the crumpled metal pried apart. State police of the local substation headed by Cpl. W. Clayton Hamberger, and Dr. Crist conducted the preliminary investigation.

Biglerville firemen were called and lights from the two trucks were used to illuminate the field. The firemen used walkie-talkies to coordinate activities. Gettysburg firemen sent a portable light plant to the scene.

Biglerville firemen worked throughout the night. Donoughe is survived by his wife, the former Mary Louise Donnelly, and a daughter, Nancy, aged 14.

REALLY TALL

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—People are always commenting on Tom Carlie's height — 6 feet 8 inches — and, Carlie, an advertising man, shrugs off most of the wisecracks. One he remembers was: "I'll bet you have snow on your shoulders six months of the year." Carlie says: "It was not a great line, but I liked it."

Two Truckers Are Injured In Crash

Two North Carolina truck drivers were injured Wednesday when their rig rolled on its side after striking a corn crib and shearing off a utility pole five miles south of Dillsburg on Rt. 15.

James H. Barefoot, 32, Candor, N. C., driver, and Mack Gibson, Lumberton, N. C., relief driver, who was sleeping, were admitted to the Harrisburg Hospital.

Barefoot was listed in unsatisfactory condition with a possible fractured skull, internal injuries and facial cuts. Gibson was held for observation in satisfactory condition.

State Police said they were told the driver lost control when he swerved his tractor-trailer to the left to avoid hitting a small girl.

ipate in such team events as tug of war, balloon bursting, and peanut scramble. Individual events for boys and girls such as hoop rolling, three-legged race, bag race, softball throw for distance, 25-yard dash, wheelbarrow race and hula-hoop race will also be staged.

The intermediate grades will enter into similar team and individual events for which, as individual winners, they will be awarded ribbons for the first three places and earn points for their Color team if their team is victorious.

The afternoon will be devoted to a program of American folklore, song and dance, as presented by children of all grades. Such ideas as the minuet, buffalo head dance, Yankee Doodle, Pennsylvania Dutch folk song, Virginia reel and cowboy and Indians variations will be presented. A Fifth and Sixth grade chorus will introduce the songs of the South as the finale of this program.

According to the notice, each witness will have a limited time to speak. Each is to bring 20 copies of his presentation.

A committee comprising Walter B. Lane, James B. Myers, park superintendent, and Dr. Frederick Tilberg, park historian, was named to work with Scharf in the development of the presentation.

Accompanying the presentation will be a resolution passed by the Executive Committee at its meeting Wednesday urging the preservation of Civil War shrines.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Jim Craft of Oklahoma City admits he is "a real talker" — but it would take "quite a few first-class talkers" to run up the telephone bill he received — $9,999.90.51 for the month of April. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. assured him there had been an error and a new bill would be issued.

Orrtanna

Mrs. Luther Wetzel
Times Reporter—Phone 125-R-21

ORRTANNA — Mrs. Charles Shindlecker, Orrtanna R. 1, had a Mother's Day surprise when she had a telephone call from her son, Glenn M. Shindlecker, who lives in Springfield, Ore., and whom she has not seen for seven years. She also spoke to her grandsons, Kenneth, who is not quite three and whom she has not seen except in pictures, and Wayne, 10.

Glen and his wife operate a sporting goods store in Springfield but Glen's activity has been curtailed and interrupted with frequent trips to the hospital since he was injured in an accident near York seven years ago while the family was visiting his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shindlecker made the trip to Oregon for a visit when Wayne was five weeks old. Since then, they have seen their son and daughter-in-law only twice when they made trips east.

Miss Mary Ramsey and Miss Verna Scott, Lancaster, visited

Mrs. Laura Cease recently. Mother's Day guests of Mrs. Cease were Mr. and Mrs. William Harclerode and daughter, Audrey, Fayetteville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Singley had with them on Sunday in observance of Mother's Day and the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Singley Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lewis, Thurmont, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Beamer and children, Billy, Susie, Bobby and Butch, Mummasburg. The Mother's Day program at the Methodist Church Sunday was as follows:

Prelude, her mother's favorite hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," by Mrs. C. A. Sloat, pianist; invocation, the Rev. Norman L. Marden; reading, "Letter to Mother," Connie McClellan; anthem, favorite hymns of members' mothers; choir; reading,

"Mothers by Proxy," Mrs. Frank Donaldson; scripture, Guy Donaldson; reading by Miss Jean Biggs, and sermonette, the Rev. Mr. Marden. The offering was added to the building fund for the church.

Mother's Day presentations included: Oldest mother present, Mrs. Harman Spence; youngest, Mrs. Eddie Fox, and the mother who has exerted the best influence in the church, Mrs. Frank Donaldson. Each received a geranium. Each mother with her whole family in attendance was given a red carnation. They were Mrs. Floyd Hess, Mrs. Raymond McClellan, Mrs. Guy Donaldson, Mrs. Eddie Fox and Mrs. Revere March.

About 1000 A.D., the Chinese made their coins in the shape of the things they wanted to buy.

GENEVA (AP) — U.S., British and Soviet foreign ministers had a talk today about ways to speed up a ban on nuclear weapons tests, under discussion here for six months.

Taking time out from the problems of Berlin and Germany, they considered the possibility of organizing a new scientific study of problems connected with such a suspension.

A 7.6 Foot Japanese Giant May Be The Tallest Man In World; Has I. Q. Of 100

By KENNETH ISHII
TOKYO (AP)—When Yoshimitsu Matsuzaka was born 23 years ago, his parents gave thanks to the gods for sending them a son.

Yoshimitsu was a big boy, and his proud parents watched him grow. They worried only a little at first when the boy complained of occasional headaches.

But Yoshimitsu grew, and grew, and grew.

Soon his parents' pride turned to alarm, for Yoshimitsu became like a clumsy giraffe, and was about as useful. His height shamed him, and from the sixth grade on he often stayed away from school because he was so different from other boys.

Nothing, it seemed, would stop his growth.

By the end of 1956, when he was 20, Yoshimitsu was 7 feet 2 inches tall — and still growing. He weighed 215 pounds but was so skinny and weak he spent most of his time in bed.

Operation Ended Growth
Yoshimitsu was taken to a hospital where doctors diagnosed his trouble as gigantism, the abnormal growth of a person's body due to a malfunction of the pituitary gland.

Yoshimitsu has since stopped growing. But he is now 7 feet 6 inches tall and may be the world's tallest living man. He weighs 264 pounds.

Dr. Kentaro Shimizu, a neuro surgeon at Tokyo University Hospital, performed an operation on Yoshimitsu last year to remove an excess of eosinophilic cells in the pituitary gland which control a person's growth. After the operation, his bones hardened and he stopped growing.

Easy-Going Boy
Yoshimitsu, a gentle, easy-going boy, now works as a handyman at the Shinkai Mental Institution in Yokohama.

"I used to be terribly self-conscious about my height," he said in a recent interview, "but I am not bothered by it any more. Of course, there are disadvantages, such as having to stoop when going through doorways, and in getting clothes to fit me."

Going out in public has its problems, too.

"I have to ride taxis when I go out," he explained. "I can't ride buses, except when they are almost empty. Not long ago I made the mistake of getting onto a bus that was already partly full. It began getting more crowded at each stop until I got so tangled up I ended up on all fours."

Yoshimitsu laughed at the recollection.

Tires Easily
Yoshimitsu has an I. Q. of 100. He eats not much more than the average Japanese. But he tires easily which disqualifies him from sports.

Shinkai supervisors hope eventually to find a useful vocation for Yoshimitsu. Said one:

"We had thought of training him to become a painter because he can reach high places that others can't. But this seems doubtful because he isn't likely to become strong enough to keep his arms lifted for any length of time."

Dr. Shimizu says his findings indicate the tallest case ever of gigantism was reported in the United States in 1937 at which time the patient, an 18-year-old, was 8 feet 2 1/2 inches.

Shimizu said he didn't know whether this case continued growing after 1937, or even whether he is still living.

Yoshimitsu ranks second on this list.

But Yoshimitsu doesn't care about being famous. "I want to live a normal life and be part of society," he said.

Cooking Is Fun

The Bride Cooks Breakfast
Here's how to poach four eggs perfectly!

Grapefruit Halves
Poached Eggs on Toast
Beverage

POACHED EGGS ON TOAST

Ingredients: 4 eggs, butter, 4 slices toast.

Method: Butter well the bottom of a 10-inch deep skillet that has a dome-type cover. Butter the insides of 4 poached-egg rings. Place the rings in the skillet; pour in boiling water to the height of the rings. Bring water to a boil rapidly; lower heat so water simmers. Break an egg into a demi-tasse cup or some other container that is short and narrow; holding cup close to ring, drop egg into it; quickly drop remaining three eggs into the other three rings the same way. Cover skillet; allow to stand over very low heat (making sure water does not bubble above surface) for 3 to 4 minutes or until whites are set and yolks are as firm as desired. Remove rings with tongs; remove eggs, one at a time, with perforated kitchen spoon, draining off water. Place each egg on a slice of buttered toast.

Sardine, Tomato and Egg Salad
Garlic Bread
Beverage

SARDINE, TOMATO AND EGG SALAD

Ingredients: 4 medium-sized (about 1 pound) tomatoes, salad greens, 4 hard-cooked eggs (halved), 1 can (3 1/4 ounces) bristling sardine, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 1/2 teaspoon finely-grated onion (pulp and juice), 1/4 cup mayonnaise, paprika, capers (drained).

Method: Cut a thin slice from both ends of each tomato; halve; arrange on salad greens with hard-cooked eggs. Mash sardines with oil from can, adding lemon juice and onion. Mound sardine mixture over tomato halves; spread with mayonnaise; sprinkle with paprika; garnish with capers. Makes 4 servings.

COTTAGE CRUMB PUDDING

Ingredients: 3 eggs (separated), 2 tablespoons plus 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup corn oil, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 3/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 squares (1 1/2 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate (coarsely grated).

Method: Line bottom of loaf pan (8 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) with waxed paper. Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually beat in the 2 tablespoons sugar; continue beating until soft peaks form. Without washing beater, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored, gradually beat in the 1/2 cup sugar, then corn oil and vanilla. Stir together the crumbs, baking powder, salt and grated chocolate; stir into beaten egg yolk mixture. Fold into prepared pan. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until pudding springs back when lightly touched with finger. Invert pan on cake rack to cool for 1 1/2 hour. Cut around edges and ends to loosen pudding, turn out and remove paper. Slice and serve with Chocolate Sauce and whipped cream. Makes 10 to 12 servings. Leftover pudding may be served cold if desired.

Ingredients: 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon corn starch, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg (slightly beaten), 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Method: Mix sugar, corn starch and salt together thoroughly in top of double boiler. Mix in egg yolks well. Gradually stir in milk. Cook and stir constantly over boiling water until slightly thickened. Remove from heat; cool; stir in vanilla. Chill. Makes 2 cups sauce. Delicious over sliced oranges and pears.

DAFFODIL CHOCOLATE CREAM CAKE

Ingredients: 2 sponge-cake layers (8 or 9 inch), 1 1/2 cups heavy cream, 1/4 cup drained syrup-prepared chopped chestnuts, 1/4 cup instant chocolate-flavored drink mix, salt, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract, fresh daffodils for decoration.

Method: Brush any crumbs from sponge-cake layers. Beat 1-3 cup of the cream until thick; fold in the chopped chestnuts; put layers together with this. Without washing beater, beat remaining 1 cup cream with chocolate-flavored drink mix and a dash of salt until stiff; fold in vanilla. Cover top and sides of cake with chocolate cream; refrigerate until serving time. Cut daffodils and leaves so stems are short; perch a bouquet of the flowers and leaves in center of cake in a pretty arrangement. The yellow flowers, pale green leaves and light-colored chocolate cream make a pretty spring time dessert for the dinner table.

More and more people recognize the wisdom of a regular medical checkup. It is the best way to put that "ounce of prevention" to practical use.

DANCE OF PELE UNDER ATTACK

HONOLULU (AP) — The ancient Polynesian gods are restless on the sleepy Kona Coast of the island of Hawaii.

The dance of Pele, the goddess of fire, is under attack. The Rev. Glen Fisk, Congregational minister of Hawaii's oldest church, says Pele's hula is idolatrous, and dances honoring the old gods "might become a stumbling block to those weak in Christian faith."

"I happen to know," he says, "that there are many folks out here who still hold on to the old superstitious beliefs — like sprinkling salt around the house after a funeral, or placing leaves in the house when there are visitors to drive away evil spirits."

Two members of his congregation have resigned from a hula troupe that performs the dances. In the Pele hula, dancers do not go through the usual swaying of the hips. They gather around a fire pit, pointing to the fire and making gestures.

Mr. Fisk says he did not tell the two dancers to quit the show but he approves of the action.

Mrs. Winona Beamer, whose hula troupe lost the dances, says she fears that a proposed program of Hawaiian pageants intended as a tourist attraction could be impaired by the attack. But no support for the minister's views could be found among other clergymen.

The Rev. Samuel A. Keala said: "It is not worship but acceptance of tradition. We should admire tradition and the culture of the past."

"I have seen the Pele hula. Those who participate in it are far from being idol worshippers."

Say Delinquency Act Can Be Judged Only In Relation To Forces Causing Crime

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Juvenile delinquency is a thing of time, place and circumstance.

The childish prank of a 5-year-old may be hooliganism in a teenager.

Foul language is shocking in a classroom, but passes unnoticed in a street corner gang.

Depend On Cause

To steal for kicks is outright crime, to steal because you're hungry and don't know where your next meal is coming from is crime tempered by the instinct to survive.

A panel of six experts, who have just concluded a nine-month study of juvenile delinquency for the National Education Assn., says a delinquent act can only be judged in relation to the forces that caused it. The specialists represent the fields of cultural anthropology, pediatrics, psychiatry, psychology, criminology and sociology.

Nearly everyone considers himself an expert on juvenile delinquency, and has firm ideas about its causes and cures. But, say the experts, it's not that simple, or delinquency would long since have ceased to be a major topic of national concern.

A Lot Of Fables

Over the years, says the NEA study, a great deal of fable and folklore has grown up around the problems of the adolescent.

Many people, for instance, point to working mothers as a major cause of delinquency. According to the experts, however, the effects of a working mother varies from family to family, neighborhood to neighborhood. More research is needed, they say, before this theory can be accepted.

Broken homes often are blamed. But it may be only because the youngster with two parents to back him gets a better break in court. The youngster from a broken home runs a bigger risk of being sent off to a state institution — and he's the one who gets mentioned in the newspapers.

Playgrounds Not Enough

The proposition that delinquents aren't really bright is a common assumption with little or no scientific support, according to the report.

Another popular idea knocked by the experts is that "a community with many playgrounds is a community with little delinquency." Carefully planned recreation programs can help, they say, if coordinated with other efforts, but their research indicates no direct relationship between such programs and delinquency rates.

Bad companions, heredity, poor physical health and slum neighborhoods also were cited by the experts as oft-quoted causes of delinquency which really aren't.

"Juvenile delinquency is not a 24-hour malady," says the report. "It does not develop overnight. Serious and persistent trouble with the law on the part of youngsters can be traced back to a long sequence of cause and effect."

No Pat Solution

The current report offers no pat solution for the juvenile delinquency problem because, the experts say, there just isn't any.

The report did make these points, however: There is a desperate need for more and better research than ever has been attempted in the field.

Community efforts that have proven effective must be expanded, and useless practices discarded.

More and better efforts must be made to identify the delinquency bound youngster before he gets there.

Primarily, it said, "in seeking a cure for delinquency, the neighborhood, not the child, must be the patient."

ROAD TO FAME IS ROUGH FOR STORY WRITER

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Advice to a prize-winning story-writer from his practical wife:

"Don't forget that at least one writer who didn't amount to much won this before."

"Don't let this go to your head. The whole business is aimed at man's vanity."

"Don't forget that you didn't win for your best writing, for that is still to come."

That was Bernard Malamud's answer when I told him that I supposed his wife, who stayed home in Corvallis, Ore., to mind the two children, was pretty tickled about his winning the National Book Awards honor for the "most distinguished" fiction of 1958.

"Yes, with qualifications, she was," said Malamud, a Brooklyn-born novelist and short-story writer whose "The Magic Barrel" picked up for him $1,000 and the coveted NBA scroll as the culmination of a long series of honors.

Runner-up for the NBA fiction award last year with the novel, "The Assistant"; Partisan Review fellowship; Rosenthal award of the National Institute of Arts and Letters; Jewish Book Council award; Rockefeller Grant; and most remunerative of all, one of the first 11 Ford Foundation grants to creative writers, which supports him for two years of writing.

Slight, short, bespectacled, with few gestures, a matter-of-fact speaker, a man with a clearly thought out purpose and direction, Malamud is unusual in a couple of respects:

Too Corny

As far as I can remember, he's the only author ever to refuse to pose for news and TV cameras holding up conspicuously a copy of his own book — too corny, he decided.

Trio Is Rescued From Auto Trunk

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (AP)—Three boys, between 5 and 6 locked themselves in an automobile trunk near a swimming pool party.

Debbie Wilson, 5, heard their muffled weeping and went to Mrs. Harry Hemstak, owner of the car and the pool. Debbie had trouble making her understand what was wrong. But her earnestness finally impressed the woman, who rushed to the car and released her son, Kip, Stephen Fredericka and Robert Perona.

The parents then decided on a reward.

That's why Debbie was eating ice cream and cake at intervals all day Tuesday.

And he's probably the only one, for all his common-sense attitude about money, who had to have his NBA check presented twice: He forgot it on the podium at the NBA party and mistress of ceremonies Virginia Peterson had to retrieve it and give it privately a second time.

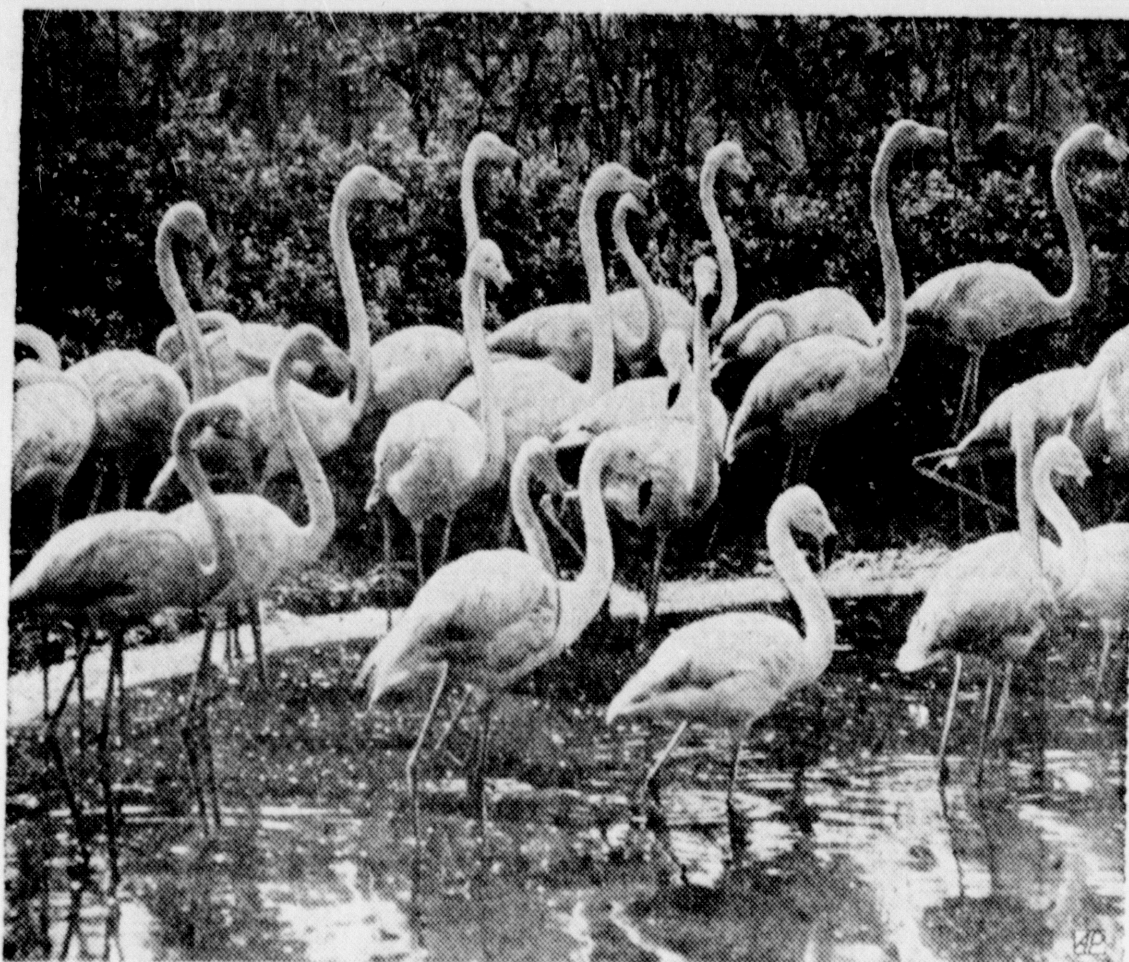

Born in 1914, Malamud began to write about 1922. When I prodded him into digging far back to find out the origin of his creative urge, he remembered:

"It was in the third grade. I made up a story about Roger Williams, about a bear encountering him, and a girl, too. I came to class early one morning with it. The teacher was there alone and took it over by the window, read it, and said: 'It's very nice.'"

He went on: "I had the kind of childhood that has disappeared from New York. I enjoyed a lot of freedom. My father was a grocer (that grocery store and its environment have been invaluable as background or setting for some Malamud fiction). My parents did not worry about my running into gangs of boys armed with knives. I'd be gone all day, I was independent. I might sneak under the turnstile of the El and go to Coney Island and enjoy the rides there. If I got lost, a policeman would start me homeward."

But his future began to assume a distinct shape in Erasmus Hall High School in Brooklyn, and from the first he aspired to write for Erasmus, a monthly and later a quarterly. He recalled: "Dorothy Kilgallen, the writer, journalist and TV star, was the editor and turned down my first story. She said, 'It's too morbid for the Erasmus.' So I tried with some comic aspect, in particular dialect pieces about a farmer named Josh visiting the city."

There seems to have been creative urge in the air at SURVEY IN UNISON — Waking flamingos uncoil their necks as they wade into pool at Whipsnade Zoo near Dunstable, Eng. The graceful birds are a great attraction.

Erasmus. Micky Spillane was an Erasmus boy, and the school gave the theater both Clara Bow and Jane Cowell.

An essay, "Life from Behind a Counter," won Malamud the school's Richard Young medal, and was reprinted in Scholastic Magazine. From then on, the author said, "I was very desirous of writing."

He entered the College of the City of New York. He thought he might be a lawyer, but enrolled in English and studied mainly to teach; that was depression and he must earn money soon.

Two teachers helped especially: Earle Fenton Palmer, for encouraging him, and Theodore Goodman for restraining a tendency to fake or overwrite.

After this it was a case of finding time. He did odd jobs, worked with the Census Bureau in Washington and sold short pieces to the Washington Post, and at last got a night-school teaching appointment at his old Erasmus Hall High and for 10 years taught at night and wrote by day. His first success was a short-story sale in 1943-44.

In the Oregon State College job which he is leaving for an exclusive writing career, he was assistant professor and taught composition, creative writing and literature.

49TH STATE PROVIDES FOR LENTEN MEAL

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
The Associated Press

It's a fair exchange. Our newest state sends us canned salmon to enjoy and we dream up a different and delightful way of using it.

Alaskans, by the way, take to recipes from many of the other 48 states.

How do we know? Looking through cook books hailing from that part of our far north. Want to take this brief culinary tour?

Turn over the pages of recipes collected by the ladies of Fairbanks. You'll find directions for making Cracker Jack (popped corn, peanuts and sugar-molasses syrup), Scandinavian dream bar cookies from Minnesota or Wisconsin, Manhattan pudding (a frozen whipped cream and fruit juice concoction), Philadelphia scrapple, the Pennsylvania Dutch ponhaus (cornmeal mush and pieces of liverwurst molded together and then sliced and browned in the frying pan), the South's spoon bread, New England brown bread, Johnny Cake made with maple syrup and spicy Texan tamale pies.

What's there for us to add? Well, a friend of ours discovered that if you use a New Orleans way with chowder, adding a can of salmon, you have something distinctly worthwhile. That unbeatable Louisiana combination May 27, 1873.

of foods—onion, green pepper, garlic, thyme, bay leaf, tomatoes, corn and okra—go into the pot along with the fish. No surprise that the result is full of flavor, hearty enough to make the main course for lunch or supper, for family or guests. Add fruit, cheese and crackers and you have an exceptionally nutritious meal.

Creole Salmon Chowder

Ingredients: 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 medium-sized onion (finely chopped), 1 clove garlic (minced), 1/2 green pepper (finely chopped), 1 1/4 cups water, 1 small onion (thinly sliced), 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes, 1/4 teaspoon dried crushed thyme, 1 bay leaf, salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 package (10 ounces) frozen cut corn, 1 can (1 pound) salmon, 1/2 of a 10-ounce package frozen whole baby okra.

Method: Melt butter in a medium-sized kettle over low heat. Add chopped onion, garlic and green pepper; cook gently until onion is transparent—about 10 minutes. Add water, sliced onion, stewed tomatoes (including liquid in can), thyme, bay leaf and salt to taste and the pepper. Bring to a boil, simmer 10 minutes. Add frozen corn and salmon (including liquid in can), add okra, bring to a boil, simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Discard bay leaf. Serve at once. Makes 6 generous servings.

Note: One can (13 and 3/4 ounces) of condensed clear mackerel broth (undiluted) may be used instead of the 1 1/4 cups water called for in the recipe.

The First Breakness was run beatable Louisiana combination May 27, 1873.

Dr. Marietta Eichelberger, Famous Home Economist, RECOMMENDS WONDER BREAD FOR CHILDREN AND FOR ALL THE FAMILY

Based On Visits To The Wonder Research Laboratories And Bakeries

Dr. Marietta Eichelberger of Chicago, Illinois, Former Director of Home Economics and Nutrition Service, Evaporated Milk Association.

"I took a trip through the Wonder Research Laboratories and a Wonder Bakery, and frankly I was amazed at what I saw. As a home economist I was particularly interested in the Wonder Research Laboratories and the important tests that are made there."

"The efficiency and cleanliness are evident everywhere. The great care taken in the baking of Wonder Bread convinced me that it's the best bread made today. I can certainly understand why so many people prefer Wonder Bread. It not only tastes delicious, but it has important food elements that help build strong bodies 12 ways."

MORE MOTHERS BUY WONDER BREAD THAN ANY OTHER BRAND
THEY KNOW IT HELPS BUILD STRONG BODIES 12 WAYS!

What Wonder Bread Can Do For Your Children, For You And Your Husband

WONDER BREAD HELPS BUILD STRONG BODIES 12 WAYS
1 MUSCLE As much Protein as a meat portion of food. 	2 BONES & TEETH As much Calcium for bones and teeth as found in 1 ounce of cottage cheese.
3 BODY CELLS As much Phosphorus for cell metabolism as 1 egg. 	4 BLOOD As much Iron for iron in blood as found in 1 ounce of liver.
5 APPETITE As much Vitamin B1 to help maintain appetite as supplied by a serving of food. 	6 GROWTH As much Vitamin B2 for growth as found in 1 ounce of milk.
7 BRAIN As much Nicotinamide to help maintain mental health as 1 egg. 	8 ENERGY As much Energy as supplied by 100 calories of food.
9 RED CELLS As much Copper for hemoglobin as found in 1 banana. 	10 VITAMIN B12 As much Cobalt for the synthesis of a healthy red blood cell.
11 PROTEIN DIGESTION As much Magnesium to aid enzyme activity for protein digestion as found in 1 ounce of food. 	12 TISSUE RESPIRATION As much Zinc for tissue respiration as found in 1 ounce of food.

What does a home economist want in a bread?

The same things every mother wants for her family—goodness.

Goodness assured by scientific laboratory control in clean bakeries . . . and top-quality ingredients.

Which is why more women buy Wonder Bread than any other brand. They know it helps children grow bigger and stronger 12 ways.

12 Ways To Growth

For normal physical and mental development, children must get a well-balanced diet of protein, fat, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals, such as come in meats, milk, eggs, fruit, green-leafed and yellow vegetables.

Wonder Bread contains 12 essential food elements that help your child grow normally.

The amounts of these 12 food elements in Wonder Bread are compared with similar amounts contained in other foods.

This does not suggest that Wonder Bread take the place of these other foods. Or that your child is deficient in any of these elements, particularly cobalt, copper, zinc and manganese.

However, the fact is Wonder Bread does contain each of the 12 food elements approximately in the amounts shown.

Thus, when you give Wonder Bread to your child, you know you are helping your child grow bigger and stronger 12 ways.

This suggests that you do 3 things:

(1) Start your child eating 8 slices of Wonder Bread today.

(2) Measure your child's height and weigh him today.

(3) See how height and weight increase in 3 months; 6 months; each year.

Fresh And Tender

You should have no trouble getting your child to eat plenty of big, new Wonder Bread.

Because it is fresh with a tender texture and crust; a mouth-watering aroma. And—makes perfect toast.

Get big, new Wonder Bread fresh from your grocer today.

And start helping your child grow bigger and stronger 12 ways.

CEMETERY IN JAPAN HAS AIR OF DISREPAIR

By KENNETH ISHII
YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — "The body was borne to a very picturesque spot at the foot of a hill, at a short distance from the village of Yokohama."

"The chaplain, Mr. Jones, was robed in his clerical gown, and on landing he was received in the most courteous manner by some of the Japanese authorities, who showed none of their supposed repugnance to the Christian religion and its minister."

The year was 1854. The words were written by Commodore Matthew Perry in describing the funeral of the first American buried in what has since become Japan's oldest and largest foreign cemetery.

Overlooks City
There are now more than 3,000 tombstones sprawled across the cemetery's 10 acres situated on the slope of a hill overlooking the bustling city and harbor.

AN ADAMS COUNTY ACCOMPLISHMENT . . .

Under the State's reassessment program, Adams County's overall assessment rose only 50%, including new construction; in a neighboring County the assessment was more than tripled. Of the State's 67 Counties, Adams County's increase in assessment was among the 8 lowest.

In two neighboring Counties, bonds were issued to pay for the reassessment program; Adams County has no bonds outstanding for this or any other purpose, and has met the increased costs of local government with a 7% reduction in the County tax mill rate.

All Depends Who Receives Messages

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—When Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson and his wife left here by commercial airliner on the first leg of a vacation in Mexico, an airline employee tried for a psychological touchdown.

Bob Crowe sent a message too his company office at Dallas, reading:

"On board flight 489 is America's greatest football coach and his wife. Any assistance would be greatly appreciated here."

But on the other end was a fan of Texas grid coach Darrell Royal, and he replied: "Party of two . . . Royal . . . not aboard 489."

of interment, with stone idols and sculptured headstones, and as the procession came up a Buddhist priest, in robes of richly embroidered silk, was observed already on the ground.

Peculiar Ceremony
"Mr. Jones read the service of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and while he was officiating the Buddhist priest sat nearby on a mat, with an altar before him, on which was a collection of scraps of paper, some rice, a gong, a vessel containing sake

LEOPARD DOGS ARE REALLY A BREED APART

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — They're called Texas cow dogs, or leopard dogs, or sometimes Catahoula hawg dawgs. . .

Under any name, the tough, glassy eyed, mean-tempered dogs that help cowboys flush cattle out of East Texas brush pastures are a breed apart.

These lean and hungry members of the American working dog fraternity came in for a bit of publicity after newspapers printed stories about the difficulties city-bred White Plains, N. Y., and burning incense.

"The Buddhist priest then commenced the peculiar ceremonies of his religion, beating on his gong, muttering his prayers, and keeping above the burning incense. He was still going through this strange formulary when the Americans moved away."

In 1858, the first U. S. consul, Townsend Harris, signed a commerce and navigation treaty with Japan and the cemetery became the accepted place of burial for foreigners who died in this country.

One of the cemetery's prominent monuments is dedicated to the 115 officers and men of the USS Onida who died when their ship collided with the British steamer Bombay in Tokyo Bay in 1870. The monument was erected by the U. S. Government.

BEAUTY AGES APART — Some 3,000 years separate model for this rare unfinished archeological find and airline hostess Annie Labzine. Model for sculpture was Queen Nefertiti who reigned in ancient Egypt. Head was flown from Cairo to Paris.

authorities were having in rounding up a handful of steers that had been freely roaming protected woodland near White Plains.

Can't Corral Steers
Mounted policemen, helicopters, and even hay doused with tranquilizer failed to corral the five steers. Mrs. James L. Barrett of this city wrote a letter to White Plains advising them to get hold of a couple Texas leopard dogs who would round up the loose animals in a hurry. Understandably, the White Plains response was: "What in the world are leopard dogs?"

Briefly, leopard dogs are bred and trained to round up cattle like a sheep dog handles sheep. Aubrey Jones of Bryan has been breeding leopard dogs for 40 years. He travels all over Texas with them, helping ranchers reclaim cows which have strayed into brush too thick for mounted cowboys to follow. It's impossible for a man to get the cattle out on foot.

Dogs Turned Loose
A working party includes from two to six dogs and the handler, either mounted or in a jeep. The dogs are turned loose on the strays' scent and race through the brush to find them. Once neighbor's cattle just for fun."

they find a steer, the dogs "bay him out." This means the dogs circle the animal, holding it stationary by rushing and snapping whenever the steer tries to break away. The baying voices enable the handler to locate the stray and pick the route out of the brush.

Once a herd is put together, leopard dogs are assigned posts and — like sentries — do not leave these posts except to nip at the heels of dissident steers.

Sell For $750
Jones' dogs have sold for as much as $750 a piece. Not all pups have the qualities that will produce valuable dogs. Jones tests a youngster by sending the dog out to hunt down a cow and drive it near enough to water so that both animals can smell it. Then he leaves the pair of them alone for 24 hours, after instructing the dog not to let the cow move. If the dog gives in to his thirst and quits his post, Jones gets rid of him.

Leopard dogs are far from handsome. One of the marks of the breed is a glassy white eye that looks blind but is not. Their coat is often spotted and this gave rise to the "leopard" tag.

Similar dogs are used in neighboring Louisiana and Arkansas to round up hogs, and are known there as Catahoula hog dogs. The dogs weigh from 30 to 50 pounds, stand about 24 inches high, take a year to train and are expected to have a working life of about nine years. They are not good natured, and are penned or leashed when not working. If they ran loose, says Jones, "they would probably round up the neighbor's cattle just for fun."

RENO — Magic Circle City of the Week.

(By EDWARD COLLIER)

Reno, where fun is serious business, likes to be known as "the biggest little city in the world."

And there is no change of pace elsewhere in the Magic Circle of novel sights, sounds and experiences that includes Virginia City, Carson City, the nation's smallest and most colorful state capital (they're worried about Alaska now); and that part of Lake Tahoe that is within the Nevada boundary line.

The popular eastern entrance into Reno (U. S. 40) is a prep school course for the newcomer. The new four-lane divided superhighway is built on two levels; while we were driving 65 miles an hour, a transcontinental bus, as well as all the Nevada and California cars, passed us as if we were standing still. King-size signs help set the tempo: many show bathing beauties as lures to the motels with pools and the hotel's big-time floor shows.

Plays Cupid Role

Once famed as the divorce capital for its citizens of six weeks, Reno now proudly plays the cupid role. Wedding, they claim, is ended for only hundreds each year, while marriages run into the thousands. There is no waiting period; licenses can be secured at venerable Washoe County courthouse daily—evenings, Sunday and holidays. Justices of the peace, a pretty chapel and wedding photographers are just across Virginia Street.

Throughout the night this "main stem" is glittering, resplendent. It has changed little since I last visited it 12 years ago, except that the gambling casinos are bigger, the flashing signs enlarged, the big hotels glow from glamour facials and batteries of plush motels have invaded the downtown area.

Curiously, the street scene is much the same: here people from all over America let their hair down. Men unpack their brightest sport shirts; the ladies don their short shorts, tightest slacks or wear the cocktail dress that drew frowns back home. And some tourists, youngsters wait patiently while papa and mama explore the forests of slot machines that grow back from every door and arcade.

Split Personality

But this is only half of Reno, for Fun is serious business in Reno which calls itself "the biggest little city in the world." Reno has a split personality: On one side of the tracks is the glittering gambling casinos and plush hotel-motels; on the other side is a life apart—a quiet residential section and the beautiful University of Nevada campus. The Magic Circle trip south includes the Reno Ski Bowl; Virginia City, lively revived ghost town; colorful Carson City, the nation's smallest state capital; Lake Tahoe, a huge inland sea of blue beauty. Interesting side trips include Squaw Valley, site of the 1960 winter Olympics; Fort Churchill State Park ruins, built as protection against hostile Indians, and Genoa State Park, site of the first white settlement in Nevada.

It is a city with a split personality. "Across the tracks" Virginia Street becomes a wide thoroughfare with a shopping center and nice homes like any other of a hundred booming towns in western U. S. A. On the crest of a hill, in a sanctuary of tall trees, the dignified and beautiful University of Nevada campus looks down with unseeing serenity on the city of contrasts.

Nine miles after you start the Magic Circle south (U. S. 395) out of Reno there is a difficult decision to make. In winter it's fun to turn west (State 27), which skirts Mt. Rose, for the Reno Ski Bowl. The double chair-lift also operates in summer for vista viewing, if you take this route to the resort area on Lake Tahoe's north shores.

New Glory

But most months of the year the choice is the road east (State 17) across the sage green valley. The 12-mile climb up to Virginia City was a merry one for our family. Scores of signs herald such gaudy, named emporiums as the Bucket of Blood, Silver Queen, Brass Rail, Sazarc, Gold Nugget.

At every curve there is a small signboard, in precise Victorian lettering, proclaiming the new greatness and glory of the Territorial Enterprise, boom day newspaper on which a reporter named Samuel L. Clemens first used the by-line of Mark Twain. Under the guidance of Lucius Beebe, ex-New Yorker, this weekly newspaper has become a modern collector's item with its old-style type, headlines and advertisements from establishments in many cities across the country—all illustrated with melodramatic drawings that resemble woodcuts.

No matter what you expected, you are startled when you round the final curve at the top of the mountain and come into Virginia City. Its faded weather-beaten buildings lay against a vast mountainside, barren except for gray sagebrush; dominant is the stark white, sky-piercing spire of St. Mary's in the Mountains Church.

At the city limits is a modern marker which seems to demand that you read the inscription; it is both a prolog to your visit and an epitaph to the bonanza days:

"Virginia City, Queen of the Comstock. Within sight is all that remains of a once great city of 30,000 people. Nearly a billion dollars in gold and silver came from its mines to create scores of millionaires. The Comstock Lode was the largest body of precious metal ever discovered on earth. At its zenith in the '70's Virginia boasted the finest of everything; there were four banks, 20 laundries, 50 dry goods stores, six churches, five breweries and 10 wholesale liquor dealers serving 110 salons. Mansions of the nabobs rose behind the town, and the water system still in use cost $3½ million."

The colorfully named old saloons now place the emphasis on an odd but fascinating combination of museum pieces, displays of antiques and posters, souvenir counter items and fancy gaming devices from the roaring past—granddaddies of modern slot machines. Another of these revived hospitality centers has a velvet-draped 25-foot painting of an old-time glamour girl, embellished by 3,251 real silver dollars which cover her gown and serve as her jewelry.

Take Your Choice

Many visitors are absorbed by Boot Hill and the other six cemeteries that dot the little hills. Surrounded by chains, or picket fences of either iron or crumbling wood, the elaborately carved and sentimentally inscribed headstones give a feeling of the boom days drama when men died young. However, the sight in "Virginia" that caused me a double-take was the old courthouse's unblinking statue of Justice, looking down at her balanced scales!

The Magic Circle curves south-east and down into Carson City, gay and booming little capital of Nevada. Tops here is the State Museum, constructed of stone in 1870 as a U. S. Mint. Beside it stands what is perhaps the most photographed railroad engine in the world. Men and boys take turns climbing into the cab of the ancient little narrow-gauge, wood-burning locomotive. Inside the museum are studiously prepared series of exhibits that range from coins to Indians; my favorite was the Fluorescent Room, where you first view rock samples in normal light and then, by stepping on a treadle, turn on "black light" to produce a startling transformation of colors in the minerals.

Climax of the exhibits is a mine underneath the museum. Realism has been obtained by construction of 300 feet of authentic mine tunnels, where once the Mint vaults were located. Very real mannequins perform the various mining operations.

Historic Capital
On down the main thoroughfare, and across from the modern Supreme Court building, is the historic state capital, surrounded by an immaculate lawn, huge shade trees and picket iron fence.

After treading its halls of marble brought from Alaska in 1870, I had my only disappointment; the silver dome is not of the precious metal that brought wealth and statehood to Nevada. "Silver would tarnish," the guide explained, "so we use aluminum paint."

"A boulevard to the sky" best describes the pleasure of driving west (U. S. 50) over Spooner Pass. I was still admiring this new engineering marvel, Nevada's costliest highway project, when we got our first stunning view of Lake Tahoe.

This inland sea of blue beauty, suspended high in an ancient volcanic crater in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, is ever-changing in its moods and color. Looking down from the road, the first impression is of a sheet of pebbled blue glass, streaked by wisps of green where the water is ruffled.

The ride down the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe is through forest aisles and Cave Rock tunnels, ancient Indian refuge adapted to the need of modern motorists. The resort town of Stateline is gay and ultra-modern in its lodges, casinos and entertainment — but definitely different from the Coney Island atmosphere found in many summer resort areas.

Circling north across the California line, the sylvan road (State 89) plays hide and seek with Tahoe's shores. Emerald Bay and the tiny island that sits like a mounted jewel in its center, is a favorite with every shutterbug. California has been particularly thoughtful in providing secluded picnic grounds and camping areas under the big trees and along the beaches. Favorites are Emerald Bay State Park and Bliss State Park.

The Magic Circle back to Reno can include a seven-mile side trip to Squaw Valley, where the 1960 Olympic Winter Games will be held. You circle east at Truckee, and follow the river route (U. S. 40).

DUTCH PEAR PIE BEST IF SERVED WARM

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
The Associated Press

Who Knows? It may be that the French and English will yet win out.

We're talking about the matter of open one-crust (tarts) versus two-crust fruit pies. The Europeans cherish the former; up to now Americans have relished our closed pastry affairs.

But there are signs in this country that more fruit and less pastry are coming into favor. Pennsylvania - German kitchens have a way all their own with open fruit pie and lots of folk are following suit. For this rich Dutchland delight plenty of cream — and sometimes eggs or egg yolks — are added to the unbaked one-crust pastry shell, fruit, sugar and seasonings.

The pastry for these open fruit pies should be rich and flaky.

being in the Beehive State when they cross the line. First comes a colorful panel: "Welcome to Utah"; next a series of day and night signs that say "Keep Utah Clean," "Trash Barrels Provided for Rubbish" and then the climax: "Littering Road Unlawful — $299 Fine." A few miles further on, at the town of Blanding, a Magic Circle field reporter saw this interesting highway advertisement: "Buy Non-Drinkers' Automobile Insurance."

In Idaho, the road (combined U. S. 20, 26, 30) across the prairies, from Boise to the beginning of beautiful Snake River Canyon at Glen's Ferry, is made quicker with these small signboards. Dignified but anonymous, they carry such legends as "Cattle Country — Watch for Bum Steers"; "Danger — Skunk Crossing"; "Ain't This Monotonous?"; "Sagebrush is Free — Stuff Some in Your Car!"; "Report Smoke Signals to Western Union"; "Lonely Hearts Club Picnic Area."

Old-fashioned American cooks achieved this desirable end by using part lard and part butter in their dough. In our own kitchen we've successfully used a modern golden - colored shortening (made of both vegetable and meat fats) plus butter or margarine. And although we feel scandalously extravagant when we do so we've been known to add cream instead of water to the fat, flour and salt.

If you want to avoid a soaked bottom crust it's a good idea to bake a fruit pie on the lowest oven rack. This encourages the bottom crust to brown quickly and well. But watch out! In a hot oven the fruit filling — after it begins to bubble and boil — may splatter. Some cooks reduce the oven heat before this occurs, others have been known to place a shallow pan (a little larger than the pie plate) holding water on the oven floor, directly under the pie, to catch the overflow. Pie tape or a band of foil will keep the pastry edge from over-browning.

Ever since our first luscious taste of fresh pear pie we've been astounded that this rule is so rarely given. Even the best of our general cook books neglect it. Served warm the fruit exudes delectable flavor and teams wonderfully with fine pastry.

NEW YORK (AP) — A half million dollar fund has been entrusted by the Carnegie Corp. to the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts "for scholarships and other assistance to young artists in launching their professional careers."

The Lincoln Center, a mile up Broadway from the present theatrical area, is being constructed during the next four years as a headquarters of music, opera, dance and drama.

AUTOS EARN DOLLARS FOR THE ENGLISH

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
LONDON (AP)—England, like many continental European countries, ranks its autos as the fastest growing dollar earner.
English car makers are increasing output and say this year's overseas orders are so good that production is their chief problem. Like optimism oozes from automen in Germany, France and Italy.
It's a one way street.
U.S. auto exports have been falling and its auto imports rising — sometimes doubling from year to year. These European cars still constitute a minor share of the U.S. domestic market. But Detroit isn't happy about losing its overseas sales.

Partially Offset

It has offset this to some extent by putting plants on this side of the Atlantic. These cater to the European taste in cars. They get the advantages of lower production costs in most cases. And they escape the heavy duty and sometimes import curbs which American made cars face. In some cases these American overseas plants ship their cars to America.

But the non-American made models have been cleaning up. British Motor Corp. officials predict they'll send 100,000 cars to North America this year, or twice last year's figure. Standard Motor's overseas sales so far are 50 per cent ahead of last year. Rootes Autos says its U.S. sales are running 74 per cent ahead of 1958.

But the British are running into stiffer competition on the continent and their exports there are down.

Keener Competition

The common market's shrinking trade barriers has put car makers there into keener competition with each other, also. When the tariffs were cut the first year, Fiat of Italy quickly cut its prices to compensate for any advantage the incoming German cars would gain.

French Simca, partly owned by Chrysler, expects its American partner to push sales in the United States this year.

All anxiously eye Detroit's upcoming debut of smaller American cars but insist that shouldn't bite into their own American market, which they call a special one. That, of course, remains to be seen.

Domestic Markets To Grow
Domestic markets in England, France, Italy and Germany are expected to grow this year because installment buying is beginning to catch on after the pattern long common in America.

But the America made car is in danger of becoming a disappearing species on this side of the Atlantic.

Europeans give several reasons: The Detroit product is too big to handle in the narrow streets of many European cities; it is what some call ostentatious and others deem vulgar; it eats up more gas—and gas prices are terrific here with taxes exorbitant by American standards; most European governments levy an annual tax on autos based on horsepower, and American models have been upping their power steadily.

Dispute Over When Baby Was Born

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Someday the daughter of the Edward L. Fossett may ask for birthday parties on both May 4 and 5.

The clock in a Lexington hospital showed 12:25 a.m. May 5 when the baby was born.

But in view of Kentucky's varying time zones Fossett, an assistant attorney general, asked the opinion of a colleague.

The reply: Lexington is on daylight saving time but state law prohibits the official use of any other time than standard. So the child was born Monday night—at least officially.

Jonathan Winters "Quite Disturbed"

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—His wife says there isn't anything wrong with nightclub and TV comedian Jonathan Winters except that he needs a rest.

She had him removed from San Francisco General Hospital Wednesday night to rest home. He was taken to the hospital by harbor police Tuesday after a ticket taker on a museum ship reported his behavior as unusual.

His wife, Eileen, flew out Wednesday from Mamoroneck, N.Y.

Dr. T. E. Albers, the hospital superintendent, said the Winters was "quite disturbed. He is definitely in need of further care."

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Television cowboy Dale Robertson turned up in Oklahoma's House of Representatives Wednesday to plug for legal horse racing and pari-mutual betting in his home state.

He said he saw nothing sinful about horse racing and noted that the Queen of England "and a lot of other prominent people" go to the races.

WAITING FOR BUS, 2 GIRLS ARE CRUSHED

OAKFORD, Pa. (AP) — Two high school girls standing near a tavern wall waiting for a bus were crushed to death by a dump truck which plowed through the wall.

The girls were buried in the rubble and it was 20 minutes before their bodies were dug out.

They were Frances Martinez of Treves Heights and Elizabeth Hegner of Feasterville. Both were 15 and were students at St. Hubert's High School in nearby Holmesburg.

Close Call For Two Others
The girls were waiting near Ne-shaminy Falls Tavern in this Bucks County community when a 10-wheel dump truck, filled with sand, suddenly swerved off the Old Lincoln Highway and into the wall.

Two companions of the girls missed death by moments. They had stopped for a soda and were walking toward the girls when the truck swerved.

Police said they were investigating the possibility the truck driver, David Godshalt, 19, of Hatfield, might have swerved to avoid an oncoming bus.

Thor IRBM With Camera Is Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Thor intermediate range ballistic missile, reportedly carrying a tiny camera in its nose, has streaked 1,500 miles over the Atlantic on what the Air Force called a highly successful flight test.

Thirty-nine minutes after the blastoff Tuesday a small data capsule that popped out of the nose cone near the end of the trip was recovered from the ocean.

The camera, equipped with high speed film because of the 10,000 m.p.h. velocities encountered on the flight, reportedly was aboard as a secondary experiment to record the nose cone's fiery re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Khrushchev May Visit U. S. Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration appears reconciled to a possible visit by Premier Nikita Khrushchev to the United States this summer.

Top officials are talking seriously about whether to combine a Khrushchev trip with a summit conference in some American city. This signals a change in attitude by authorities whose views would be important in deciding

TO DEDICATE FIRE BUILDING

Final plans for dedication of its new home May 30 were outlined at a meeting of the Conewago Fire Co. at Edge Grove.

President Francis W. Miller said the program will include a sea food supper on May 29 and a fried chicken and ham supper Saturday, May 30, preceded by a parade at 4 p.m. and dedicatory exercises at 5 p.m.

Reports on the air raid test held April 18 in the area showed that the Conewago fire hall was utilized as an emergency hospital to receive 25 "victims" from the mock attack on McSherrystown.

New Members
Lawrence Markle and Paul Strausbaugh were accepted as active members of the company and Charles Hagerman as a social member.

The company bowling team, according to a report at the meeting, will have its play off this evening at 9 o'clock at Clearview Bowling Center.

Members were asked to contribute time during the week of May 24 to 30 to prepare grounds for dedication of the new fire hall.

The next meeting, Secretary Donald Sneringer said, will be held June 12 at 8 p.m. at the fire hall in Edge Grove.

Mrs. Tressler won the guess gift. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Members from the Woman's Society of the local church who attended the WSCS district rally held in the Chambersburg Methodist Church on Friday. All day sessions were attended by Mrs. Margaret King, Mrs. Mary Tressler, Mrs. Ruth Donaldson, Mrs. Ruth Deardorff, Mrs. Grace Wetzel and Mrs. Bertha Shulley.

The Mother-Daughter banquet of the WSCS of the Mt. Carmel EUB Church was held on Monday evening at the Cashtown Fire Hall.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fire Company served a turkey dinner to 41 persons including the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Gotwalt, who offered prayer. The monthly meeting followed with the president, Miss Linda Carbaugh, calling the meeting to order.

The meeting opened with the hymn "What A Friend" and prayer by the pastor, after which Miss Carbaugh announced that the society will receive an award for having the greatest per cent of increase in members. The award will be presented at the WSCS convention in Calvary EUB Church, Lemoine, May 13 and 14.

The devotional part of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. William Weigle and opened with the hymn "Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me." The group then took an imaginary trip to Puerto Rico with the following taking party: Mrs. Weigle, Miss Carbaugh, Mrs. Robert Shindler, Mrs. Dale Wetzel and Mrs. Clyde Metz. The meeting closed with the hymn, "O Worship The King" and the Lord's Prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Henry and sons, Glenn and Frank, Hallam, York County, were Sunday visitors with the Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Gotwalt.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pepple and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fissel and son, Jeffrey, visited Sunday with Mrs. Pepple's mother, Mrs. Catherine Weaver, and other relatives in Hagerstown.

Among those who spent Mother's Day with Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Wetzel were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Baker, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wampler, children, Barbara, Colene and Danny, York, and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Rupp, Dillsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Biesecker and son, Charles, Hanover, spent Saturday with Mr. Biesecker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Biesecker.

BEAUTY QUEEN IS JAILED FOR 2 ROBBERIES

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — A 20-year-old girl was in a jail cell today, only 10 months after she was crowned a state beauty queen.

Dixie Ann Gottfried has signed statements admitting two armed robberies last Monday, according to sheriff's investigator William Maraggos. No charges have been filed.

"All I wanted was $50 for a room and some new clothes and a few dollars to get a new start," said the 5-foot-11, 150-pound beauty. "I was flat broke."

Mrs. Gottfried won the Miss Colorado Jaycee title last July, as blonde Dixie Ann Dickes of Pueblo, Colo.

Long, Unkempt Hair
When two patrolmen arrested her late Monday night at nearby Aurora, her hair was long, unkempt and dyed black. She was dressed in slacks and a rough shirt.

Records at her home town of Pueblo show she was fined $125 last November for fighting and pouring beer on two policemen who attempted to arrest her in a tavern.

Mrs. Gottfried was arrested less than 15 minutes after an Aurora drugstore was robbed at gunpoint of $131 and narcotics.

She admitted she had robbed a Denver hotel early Monday of $17. The lithe beauty said her husband, William D. Gottfried, 23, is in the Illinois Prison for the Criminally Insane. He was convicted of kidnapping a policeman, Maraggos said.

"He'd just raise Cain if he knew about this," she said.

WINS FIRST IN MILK CONTEST

The first prize of $1,000 in the "Why I Changed to Golden Guernsey" contest sponsored by farmers producing Golden Guernsey milk and the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association has been mailed to Mrs. Rodolph A. Filz and her daughter, Lois, Steelton, the association announced.

Other winners received prizes ranging from $500 to $50 as they shared $5,000 in cash awards made in the contest which was announced in the Gettysburg Times and in newspapers in York, Lancaster and Dauphin Counties.

Among the winners were Mrs. Warren H. Miller, Atglen, $500; Mrs. Marshall C. Busser, York Haven, and Mrs. W. R. Duffen, New Cumberland, $200 each; and $100 each to Mrs. Ike Marcus, Harrisburg; Mrs. Lewis WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon have agreed to help congressional campaigners in their efforts to raise a special fund of about $400,000.

Eisenhower and Nixon accepted invitations to be the chief attractions at a $100-a-plate dinner here June 8 honoring Republican members of Congress.

Other Win $50
Sullivan, York; Mrs. Sterrett Teahl, Steelton; Mrs. E. C. Moretz, Newport, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Deen, Willow Street.

Twenty other persons received prizes of $50 each. Each driver-salesman or storekeeper serving a cash winner was also given $50.

The winning entry cited curiosity aroused by newspaper advertising and faith in honest advertising as influencing a change to Golden Guernsey milk.

To enter the contest, the contestant had to tell in 50 words or less "why I changed to Golden Guernsey milk."

In addition to the cash prizes, pen and pencil sets were awarded 100 honorable mentions.

A small piece of preserved ginger chopped and mixed with cream cheese makes an interesting tea sandwich filling; use nut bread for these.

ORRTANNA — The WSCS of the Orrtanna Methodist Church held its monthly meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Sloat, Gettysburg, on Thursday evening. There were 16 members in attendance. The subject for discussion was "The World To Christ We Bring." Mrs. Althea March, president, presided. Scripture reading, songs and officers reports were given. The election of officers for the year was conducted with these results: President, Mrs. Ruth Donaldson; vice president and spiritual life secretary, Mrs.

both issues. Until now, they have stressed the difficulties involved in a Khrushchev visit or choosing an American site for a summit conference.

If plans for a summertime summit meeting collapse, there is some prospect the bouncy Soviet leader will force the issue by asking to be allowed to open the Soviet Exposition in the New York Coliseum June 30.

ROAD PROGRAM OF GOVERNOR IS "PLAUSIBLE"

HARRISBURG (AP)—The chairman of the Republican-controlled Senate appropriations subcommittee says Gov. Lawrence's program of highways spending for the next two years is plausible.

But Sen. George Stevenson (R-Clinton) declined to comment on the administration's proposals to raise 117 million dollars in motor vehicle taxes to balance a 989 million dollar highway budget.

Stevenson said he was very much impressed with the presentation of the budget Wednesday by Highways Secretary Park H. Martin at a day-long public hearing conducted by the subcommittee.

Gets Agreement
Martin also drew agreement from Sens. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland) and Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster) when he said Pennsylvania roads have been allowed to deteriorate.

"The glamour boy has been federal aid construction," said Martin. "If the program for local roads was robbed, then it was done to make sure that this state got all the federal aid it was entitled to."

To restore the state roads, Martin urged the Legislature to approve his proposal to spend 105 million dollars for maintenance during the next two years.

Asks New Revenue
Martin also renewed the administration's plea for 117 million dollars in new revenue. He said the money is needed to qualify the state for an additional 135 million dollars in federal aid in the 1959-61 biennium.

The highways secretary defended the proposed gasoline tax in crease, from five cents a gallon to six cents, a $5 increase in the annual $10 passenger car registration fee and a boost from $1 to $3 in the operator's license fee.

Martin denied statements he said were made by at least one private group that Pennsylvania motor fuels taxes already are the highest in the nation.

He presented a chart showing 38 states with higher gasoline taxes than Pennsylvania and 10 others with the same levy.

No further public hearings were scheduled by the subcommittee.

Missile Defense Is 'Not Good Enough'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The commander of the 1st Pacific Fleet says America's defense against missile launching submarines "is not as good as I would like to see it." Russian subs probably are deployed along the Pacific coast, vice Adm. Ruthven E. Dibby told a news conference Wednesday. But he would not confirm reports the subs have been sighted near the Channel Islands off the south ern California coast. "Our needs to combat this threat are more efficiency and more ships," he added.

Jerry Neri, Art Raimo and Ray Stoviak, former Villanova athletes, are assistant football coaches at Yale.

The Pittsburgh Pirates made only four runs in their first four games this year while their rivals scored 19.

TEDDY ROONEY AT 8 HEADING FOR SHOW BIZ

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can show business take another Rooney? Apparently it will have to, because young Teddy's career is booming in a manner that recalls his famous father, Mickey.

Teddy started late. He was all of 8 before he made his acting debut. His old man started by crawling onstage during his parents' vaudeville act.

Now a mature 9, Teddy relaxed in the den of his Sherman Oaks home after school and reminisced about his acting days.

"I've had fun," he mused. "The best part is that when I work, I only have three hours of school work. When I don't work, I have to go six hours a day! That's terrible."

See what I mean about the resemblance to his pa?

Teddy's mother, actress Martha Vickers, says, "Teddy is very much like his father in the way he does things. He throws his whole heart and soul into it, whether he's playing a role or second base for the Little League. There is nothing half-way about him."

Not Smart
Indeed there isn't. Yet he is a well-mannered young man, not the smart-aleck type you often meet among movie children. The physical resemblance to Mickey is sometimes amazing, especially in profile.

How did Teddy get started as an actor?

"It was an accident," explained Martha, now married to Manuel Rojas and mother of a 3-year-old girl. "My agents heard that Screen Gems was looking for a boy to play Dennis the Menace in a TV series. They knew Teddy and wanted to take him for an audition. I agreed."

Wants To Be Fireman
"He was considered too old for the part, but then I got a role in a Playhouse 90 film Screen Gems was making. There was also the part of my son, and Teddy was suggested for it."

Teddy's latest venture is a dream assignment. He plays the role patron at an amusement pier in a sequence for a CBS spectacular to air next Monday.

Does Teddy plan to continue with his career?

"Sure. But only until I'm 17. Then I want to be a fireman."

DELAY VOTE ON DILLON

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate vote on C. Douglas Dillon's nomination to the No. 2 spot in the State Department has been delayed at the request of Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.).

Dillon won a 161-vote approval from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday of his nomination by President Eisenhower as first undersecretary of state. That is the post Christian A. Herter held before being named secretary of state.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), acting majority leader of the Senate, said Long had requested a postponement of Senate action on the nomination until next week.

Long said that to him Dillon is the symbol of what Long called waste and mismanagement in the Foreign Aid Program.

In a Senate speech, he asked senators to reserve judgment until he has developed his case.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Joe E. Brown's enthusiasm for the Los Angeles Dodgers cost him $17,655 in money, jewelry and furs.

While the comedian was watching the Dodgers play the Phillies Tuesday night, thieves ransacked his home.

The evening wasn't a complete loss, Brown noted. The Dodgers won.

Divers Seek Bodies Of 3 Jet Pilots

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP)—Navy divers attempted today to recover the bodies of three jet pilots whose planes crashed into the Atlantic.

Maj. Gen. Daniel W. Jenkins, deputy commander of the 9th Air Force, will head an investigation into the crash Wednesday of the three F100 Super Sabre Jets. They were part of a night navigation and refueling mission.

Other members of the formation said the three ships suddenly fell from the formation and hit the water one by one. All exploded. No parachutes were seen.

MAY REQUIRE WEEKS TO FIND CRASH CAUSES

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—It will be weeks, possibly months, before the public knows the causes of two airliner accidents — 300 miles and 38 minutes apart — that claimed 33 lives. Both involved Capital Airlines planes bound for Atlanta.

A mysterious explosion ripped apart a turboprop Viscount high over Maryland, hurling all 31 aboard to their deaths. The tragedy occurred at 5:18 p.m. Tuesday 15 miles east of Baltimore when the air was turbulent from a thunderstorm.

Just 38 minutes earlier, a giant Constellation landing at Charleston, W. Va., toppled over the end of a runway and burst into flames, killing two of the 44 persons aboard.

Long Job Ahead
The Viscount was en route from New York nonstop. The Constellation came from Buffalo, N.Y., via Pittsburgh.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators converged on both locations but made it clear, after a full day's work, that it would take a long time to get any specific answers.

Was there a bomb on the Baltimore plane? This was the question everyone asked and it had no answer. CAB and Capital officials would not comment except to say they were examining every piece of evidence.

NIGHT IS QUIET AT HENDERSON

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—National Guardsmen and a stiff court order brought the quietest night in a month to the struck Harriet-Henderson cotton mills.

With 300 rifle carrying guardsmen standing watch, workers leaving the two plants at 11 p.m. Wednesday entered empty streets. Officers said it was the quietest night at the mills in a month.

The court order, signed Wednesday by Judge William Y. Bickett, allows only eight pickets at the gates of the mills' two plants. The pickets must be 75 feet from the gates. No crowds will be allowed to congregate outside the mills.

There has been virtually no violence since the Guardsmen were rushed to the mills Tuesday.

The strike of the Textile Workers Union of America started last Nov. 15 after the company insisted on eliminating an arbitration clause from the contract. Violence erupted periodically since the mills reopened on a limited basis Feb. 16.

TO SENTENCE ACTOR
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Jay Robinson, 29, will be sentenced June 3 on four counts involving sale and possession of narcotics.

NEW YORK (AP)—Lonesome George Gobel, low-key comedy, guitar and all, is off American TV until fall. Then he'll return to alternate weekly with Jack Benny.

But pint-sized George won't veg out over the summer; he'll keep in professional shape with plenty of roadwork.

From a stay in Las Vegas, Gobel recently opened at the Waldorf-Astoria's Empire Room. After a month here, he takes off for England to do a couple of TV shows for its commercial network.

Worrying About British

Gobel's scrapbooks are full of critical raves about his supper club act. But he isn't kidding when he says he's worrying about how the British are going to take his very special brand of comedy.

"Every place is different," he fumes. "Every audience is different. There's a lot of difference, for instance, between playing in a great big room with a big stage in Las Vegas and in a supper club in New York. There's a whoop-it-up spirit in Las Vegas—everyone out there is out for a good time. You get bigger laughs; you feel right away that people are going to laugh loud.

"In New York here, the laughs aren't so big—people chuckle. They're quieter, perhaps more appreciative, and it's a much easier place to set a ballad. I think I like an intimate room with a quieter crowd."

But it's the evocation of laughter in the nation's living room that gives the comedians their ulcers.

Audience Is Essential

"The same type of material you use in a night club goes on television," Gobel continued earnestly. "Except that until you do it—until it's gone—you don't know whether it is any good or not, and then it's too late. In Las Vegas, for instance, you can work with your materials for a week or so and get everything all straightened out—the jokes and the timing. But on TV you only get one run with them."

The TV studio audience, says Gobel, is absolutely essential to the comedian.

"Those audiences change from week to week, too," he says. "But they are there to help the performers, not to cue the home audience that it's time to laugh. We'd never get anywhere if we were playing to a big vacuum. And you know right away whether you've got a good show or not."
